well, back again

Who picked the color for these doors?

The red doors assaulted our eyes and seemed to flash a signal that changes were awaiting us. We began to get the message when we jostled our way into the main office and discovered the secretaries now had a much-needed, full-counter barricade to protect them from the constant hassling of people pushing up around their desks.

Looking up, we discovered the dress code had been posted prominently. Some of us were glad to see it and remembered that it had appeared in the Suncoast Sentinel the week before. But those of us wearing halter tops and blouses that did not meet the belt line shrugged and hoped that maybe the rules would not be enforced.

Comics are the best.

Check out this word.

A flat tire, Huh?

people, people everywhere

Hearing rumors about the library, we pushed in and were shocked to find that, yes, one third of it had been gobbled up by overcrowding and was now the new Naval Science room. How could we face the morning "blahs" in the usual way if there was no room to get together here with our friends unless we sat on tables or stood up? We knew this had been a big sacrifice for everyone but realized that it was necessary. The administration had obviously done a lot of pre-planning in order to make room for all of us. It was just something that had to be.

Overcrowding was screaming at us everywhere. Some classes were incredibly packed, although in the first two weeks it was difficult to tell who belonged where because of the registration tangle. But the crush was most evident in the halls. During class changes the halls became a battleground where only the fittest survived. We will never know how many students and teachers were lost in action.

We heard the administration was already working on plans to make registration easier on everyone winter quarter. We also started being issued passes whenever we left class. This was something new. If one of us was caught without a needed pass, there was real trouble ahead.

I think I see daylight!

the lunchroom — what a hassle!

What is it!

Sorry, this seat is taken.

We soon discovered another battleground — the lunchroom. It wasn't uncommon for us to stand holding our trays until a spot was vacated. We even began invading the teachers' table — no longer a no-man's land for us. For those of us who were upperclassmen and accustomed to leaving campus for lunch, the closed campus rule was a real bummer. Some of the people who felt the most strongly about it met with Mr. Walker who explained the reasons behind it. He said the rule was designed to make sure we ate well-balanced, inexpensive meals; curb drugs coming on campus; and keep us from going where we didn't belong. However, this didn't convince many of us. But no matter how loudly we yelled, in the end we had to learn to live with it. Those of us who lived within a few blocks of the school could get permits to go home for lunch, but the rest of us ate in the lunchroom.

Since no food or beverages were allowed to be taken out of the lunchroom, the campus began to look a lot neater. There were no more gooey, sticky messes in the halls from spilled or thrown milkshakes, and milk cartons weren't scattered all over the place.

I think I see daylight.

the guys who have to cope

"I thought it was milk!"

"You want this announced?"

"Put them in? I said take out!"

We got used to seeing the "dynamic duo" around the school a lot. Mr. Walker and Mr. Marlett seemed to be everywhere we looked. Although this was the first year for both of them as administrators, they were already familiar faces because many of us had been in their classes. To see them sporting coats and ties and really looking like "flashy dudes" dazzled our eyes.

the dynamic duo

getting it on in fashion

Many of us dressed a bit differently from the way we had in the past. The dress code really was enforced which meant that a few of us had spent money on clothes we couldn't wear. Bare midriffs and backs, unbuttoned shirts or those that were designed to be tucked in but weren't, and ragged cut-offs no longer were seen. Hats couldn't be worn in class or in the lunchroom anymore. We began to look neater. There were still many people into the jean scene. Some jeans were decorated with embroidery and studs, but a lot of them were just plain jeans. One of the new fashion fads was silk shirts with flower prints, scenery, and graphic designs. Western shirts and cuffed, wide-legged pants were still around. The "nostalgia thing" had finally hit Crystal River. Some girls were wearing longer skirts, Minnie Mouse beads, and platform shoes (with soles two inches thick and more).

Hair styles changed in that shorter cuts became more popular for both sexes. Long, straight hair styles and shags began to give way to a more groomed and curled look. Afros were still "in". But we saw a great many intricate designs made by carefully braiding hair into patterns, often combining this with pom-poms.

Everyone seemed to be doing his or her own thing. Naturally, Tex (Tom Evans) remained the same rugged individualist in his cowboy-style clothes and boots, but other people seemed to be willing to be different too. Whenever people got together it was obvious that clothing was a true form of self-expression.

I don't believe it.

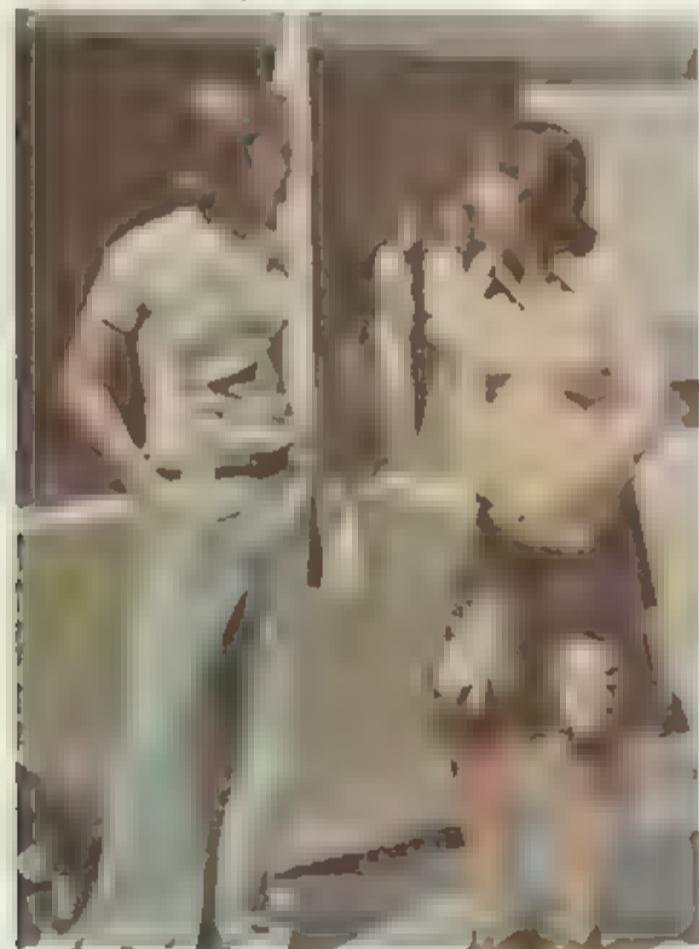

Hey, who cut your hair?

That wasn't funny!

Maybe he's got a cigarette that I can borrow.

Is he a Marboro man?

One place many students gathered was the new smoking area. Those of us who smoked could do it freely and openly (if we had a note from our parents) and no longer suffered from paranoia. And, since the smoking area had replaced the bathrooms as the smokers' major social gathering spot before school, between classes, and at lunch, those of us who didn't smoke didn't have to breathe in the fumes. The bathrooms served their rightful purpose and looked much neater and cleaner besides being works of art.

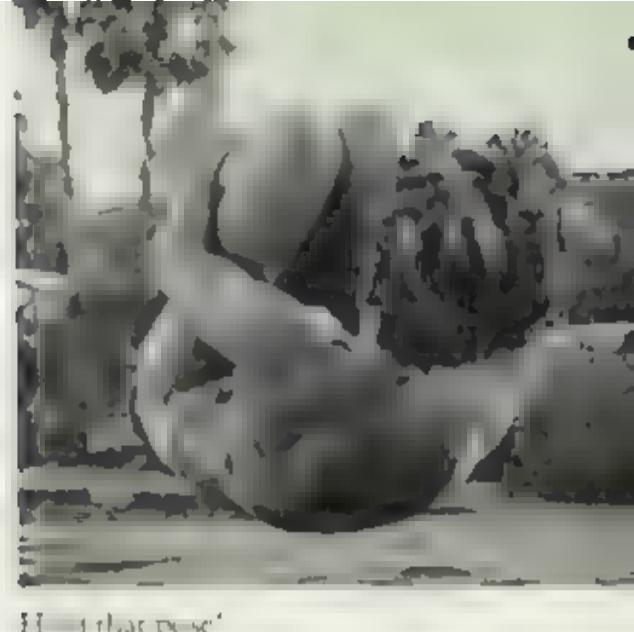

However, although the smoking area seemed to bring general approval from students and teachers, there was a somewhat mixed reaction from parents. Many parents approved of it, but some (organized under "The Committee for the Betterment of Schools") wrote a letter to the editor and voiced their negative opinions in the Suncoast Sentinel concerning the smoking area. Many of the students hoped that the privilege would not be abused and that the smoking area would remain.

a new policy begins

The administration's new, more liberal policy concerning activities and fund-raising events enabled us to do a lot more than we had in the past. Coach Bramlett was named Activities Director, and whenever we wanted to have a school-sponsored activity we went to him for approval. If an event was well-organized and supervised and didn't interfere with something else on the calendar, we were usually allowed to have it. Fund-raising activities involving the community at large (like car washes, dinners, and bake sales) were fine as long as we offered a service or a product in return for money received.

We started off the list of many activities to come with Howdy Week. We had the usual events and added something new — the diving competition, won by Marvin Driver.

Having dinners seemed to be a great way of raising money. Decca started off with a spaghetti dinner, followed by a fish fry, and they had plans for many more. Then along came the juniors with their shrimp dinner. Although it netted them $400, it also netted them a lot of *22*11. Unfortunately, the trash from the dinner was left over the weekend. By Monday, it smelled like the red tide had hit. Picture the dynamic duo out there shoveling shrimp and trying to get the worst of it out so the ladies in the cafeteria could cook without gagging. It was not a good move, and it brought all dinners in the cafeteria to a screeching halt. Oh, well.

Howdy that pose!

let the good times roll

But other events went on. We had a lot more dances than we'd ever had before. A band played nearly every weekend. "Free Fare" was rather unusual in that they gave us a free concert the Wednesday before their real show Saturday night. Most of us really got into this because it was fun and it gave us more to do than just bum around.

During activities and football games many of us worked in the concession stand to earn extra money. Several of the juniors took advantage of this opportunity to earn money for the prom. They were paid five dollars each per night and donated this money to their class.

One of the more unusual events which warmed all our hearts was the birth of Reefer's puppies. Reefer, our unofficial school mascot, wasn't seen so much around the halls now that she had a family to take care of. Word spread quickly after Mr. Marlett announced the blessed event. However, the father was never notified because he could not be found.

Chow Chow Chow

spirit! spirit! go, pirates!

To promote more school spirit, more pep rallies were held this year. The coaches seemed to get more involved than the students. At the beginning, there was a notable increase in school spirit, due to the opening victories of the Pirates. Some of us fought tooth and nail in the stands for candy and footballs which were thrown by the cheerleaders and coaches. Generally things ran smoothly until it was time to go, and then there was a mad rush to see who could get out of the gym first.

Hey, throw me a piece of candy!

time for fun and games

Homecoming Week started off with Grub Day — students were dressed in outlandish garb. Many were surprised to see an old man tottering up and down the halls appearing to be on the brink of death, with one foot in the grave and one foot on a banana peel. But it turned out to be a student. We went home and got out of our rags and made ready for the next day. We earned points in class competition by donning our hats for the traditional Hat Day, which was followed by Voo Doo Day and Alarm Clock Day. During this time we frantically worked on our floats and threw our skits together since Pirates Prowl was moved from Thursday to Wednesday night with little warning.

To give time for the Juniors and Seniors to set up for their skits, we had a Pie Eating Contest and a Volkswagen Race. The contestants in the Pie Eating Contest found that the only way to get ahead was to dive in head first. Lemuel Watkins took a messy first place. The Volkswagen race was next, with the Sophomores placing first, followed immediately by the Seniors, Juniors, then the Freshmen.

Power to the Juniors'

With the list of activities growing shorter, Journalism put on a skit which showed the exploits of the Pirate team switching Pirate strength for the Raider's Plan X. The Junior skit, which placed second, came next involving the Raider football team in the locker room before the Pirate Homecoming Game. The backfield was full of cowards and illegal motions. Their star Quarterback turned out to be a "busty" girl First Place — the Senior skit, was a kangaroo court between the Pirates and the Raiders. The Pirates, who were accused of blowing up the Raider locker room, poisoning the field, and putting itching powder in the team's jocks, won their case with a little help from a drunk jury and payoffs by their attorney. A Pirate ship, with a captured Raider on board who was being forced to "walk the plank" — thus was the French skit.

Get a KICK out of life!

After seeing the performance of the girls in the Punt, Pass and Kick Competition, we were wondering why some of them weren't on the Football team. A fine effort by Faye Harris and Cynthia Ford was enough to capture first place for the Juniors. The last of the competitive events was the Wagon Race. From the stands it looked easy, but the participants soon found it hard to keep the wagons on the track. The Juniors took first, followed by the Sophomores, Freshmen, and Seniors. To wind up the 1974-75 Prowl, we had the traditional bonfire. At first it seemed tradition would be broken and there would be no bonfire, but the Agriculture class stepped in at the last minute and gathered enough burnable materials to have one.

After the Prowl many students went to work on their floats, realizing that there were only two more days before the parade.

the parade, which is usually a high of homecoming week, was disappoint

The turnout for the parade wasn't as great as it had been in past years. This was caused, in part, by the fact that school was not dismissed at one o'clock. Instead we got out at the regular time, and the parade was held after this (partially in the dark). Evidently, our conduct at previous parades caused this change. There were complaints that we had run through the middle and the primary schools, causing chaos and a lot of noise. This had not been a popular move, and it cost us. But even the lack of spectators and varsity football players (who were kept on campus) didn't stop the traditional parade.

The band, as usual, led off the procession and set the pace for the rest of us. The Drama Club and the FFA each had their members represented and seemed to have a great time.

Both the juniors and the seniors presented pirate ships. The seniors' ship, which won second place, was filled with rowdy Pirates thirsting for Raider blood. The juniors' galleon, powered by Raider captives while a watchful Pirate kept them in line, finished first. The sophomores tried something a little different, and their float, which finished third, depicted a giant can of Raid killing a group of Raider football players. The freshmen constructed a desert island complete with a gold treasure chest and won fourth place.

The yearbook staff regrets that there are no pictures of the senior and the freshman floats. Unfortunately, much of our film was ruined and even though we asked for pictures that the students might have access to, there was no response.

Pirates' parade through town

As the parade progressed, the j.v. cheerleaders and football players rolled along perched on two fire trucks loaned by the Crystal River Fire Department.

We heard giggles and merrymaking as the varsity cheerleaders, attractively displayed in their convertible, slowly passed by, laughing and smiling at each other and the crowd.

Carla Taylor, our 1973-74 Homecoming Queen, smiled sweetly as the tissue-decked float she shared with this year's homecoming beauties glided by.

As the parade neared its end, some of us wondered where the varsity football players were. Why weren't they in the parade as they had been in previous years? We discovered that, because the parade was held so late in the afternoon, they had been required to stay on campus. We missed them.

Excitement mounted as we realized that the end product of all the work put into homecoming was coming to an end. The game was getting closer and our minds were filled with questions like: "Will our team win tonight?" "Which class will win the competition?" and "Who will be our new homecoming queen?" Before the start of the game it was announced that the juniors had taken first place in class competition for the third time in a row.

As the Pirates took to the field, the stadium exploded with the sounds of wild shouting and cheering. And, with the start of the game, the rain began to drizzle down on us all.

But, even though it was a miserable night weather-wise, very few people were feeling low, with the exception of the Raiders' fans. The Raiders were unable to start anything offensively. On the other hand, the Pirates got off to an early lead in the first quarter. Throughout the rest of the first half the Pirates were able to stifle any attempts for a Raider touchdown. And the first half came to an end with the Pirates enjoying a fourteen to nothing lead.

During halftime the game and the score were temporarily forgotten — the crowning of the Homecoming Queen was about to take place.

Everyone's eyes focused on the eight candidates as their cars slowly made their way out onto the field. The candidates and their fathers then walked across the gridiron to the girls' nervously waiting escorts.

Finally, with everyone in place, Frank Fucci, our Student Council president, announced that the second runner-up was Dana Hagerty and the first runner-up was Bridget Stoney.

Then, the big moment arrived. All of us waited in nervous anticipation as Frank opened the sealed envelope which contained the name of the 1974-1975 Homecoming Queen.

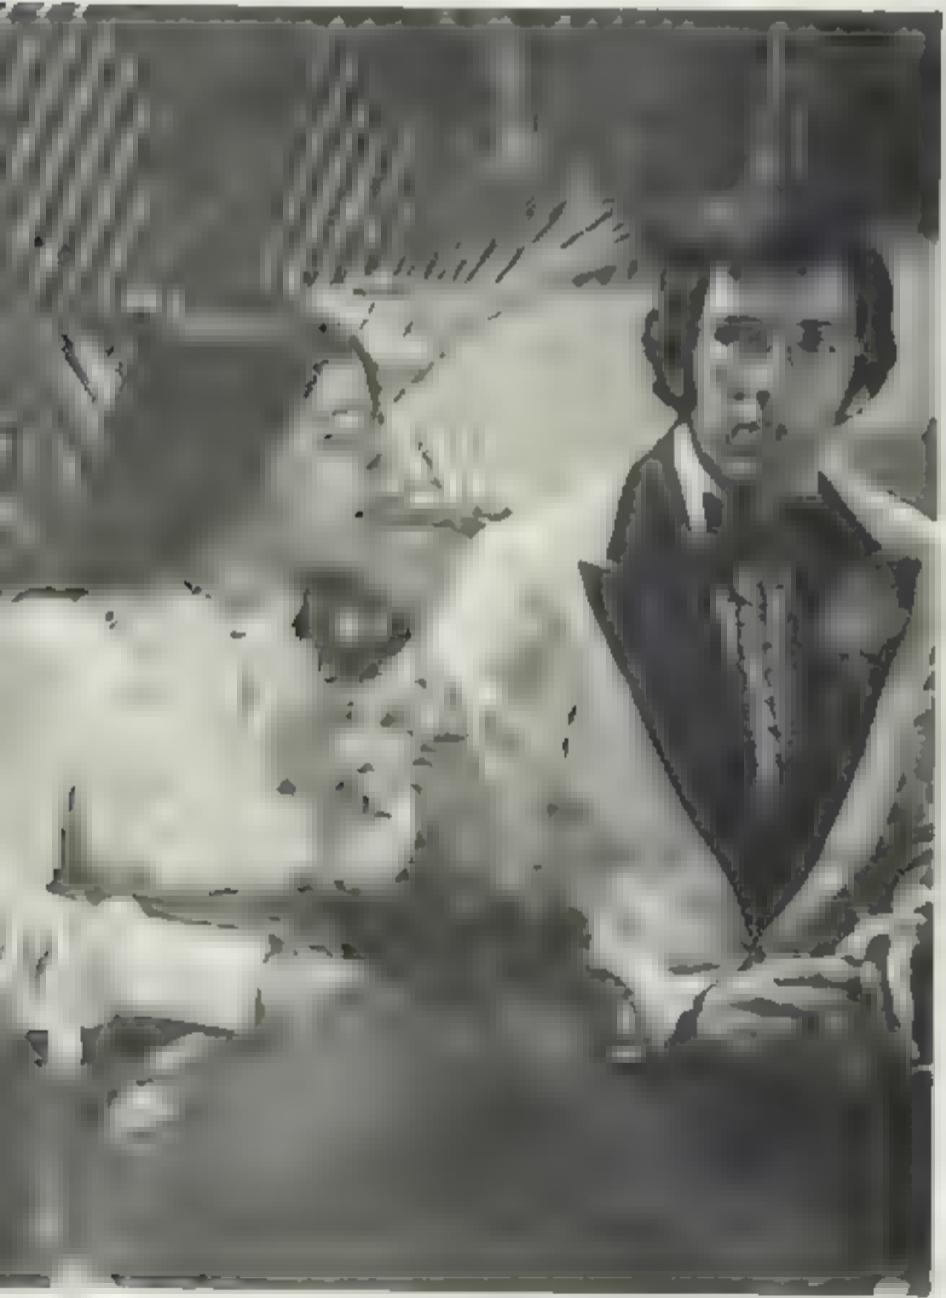

"You're pretty," murmured Jeff Townsend to Dana Hagerty

Arelene wins and is our Queen

"The name of our 1974-1975 Homecoming Queen is Miss Arelene Veronica Sawyer," Frank Fucci announced, and cheers rang out from all over the stadium. There were more cheers as Carla Taylor gracefully placed the crown on Arelene's head.

Arelene, who is our first black homecoming queen, has been very involved in school activities. Along with being captain of the varsity cheerleaders, president of the senior class, and a member of the F.H.A. and the Lettermen's Club, she has consistently maintained an impressive grade average.

After graduation she plans on attending Florida State University where she wants to study physical education therapy.

Army band shows a lot of versatility

Our usual school routine was disrupted on a Wednesday as we filed into the gym to hear the performance of the Army Band. Everybody tried to find seats in the stands, but when there was no more room in the wooden bleachers, the floor became the next alternative. This was not the first time that bands from the armed services had performed here. In previous years we had bands from the Navy and Air Force. In between songs, we were bombarded with pitches to enlist into the Army. The music continued for about an hour until the bell sounded the return to the usual morning drudgery.

From Mexico . . .

This year, on Nov. 6, CRHS received a transfer student named Raul Salomon Davila Siller. Raul came from Rio Bravo, a city in the state of Tamaulipas, located in the northern half of Mexico. His father is an engineer and his mother is the manager of a grocery store. Raul also has one brother. While staying here he is living with the Uptons, a family in Homosassa.

Raul finds that the people are not really any different. In Mexico, the music, length of hair, the style of clothes are very much like that of the young people of the U.S. American television is also seen there, programs such as the Godfather and the Midnight Special were aired. As far as drugs go, it seems that it is really no better for dopers. Those who break the law by using drugs can be jailed if they are caught. The main sport in Mexico is soccer. To them soccer is just as important as football is to us. Volleyball is also popular. Raul plans to finish out his high school here, but is not sure about attending college in the states. Raul would like to go into architecture or some related field.

All in all, Raul likes it here so far. He says he has a little trouble communicating, but there is no real lack of understanding.

Uh . . . how do you say . . . uh . . .

"No, that's a noun!"

Mr. Carter points out their destination

Here you take it

Mexican trip

On March 22, five members of Mr. Carter's Spanish classes will be leaving for Mexico City and plan to stay for eight days. The students Doretha Yates, Andy Kennedy, Nancy Austin, Devi Livermore, and Sally Fisher will be visiting The Mexican Archeological Museum, The Chapultepec park and castle, The Pyramids of Teotihuacan, and The Folklorico which is the National Ballet Company of Mexico. But the trip will not be purely academic, the group will also have an opportunity to visit one of the many colorful flea markets and haggle over merchandise. Also, they will attend one of the Bullfights and witness one of Mexico's most popular and dangerous spectator sports.

The students will be accompanied by 5 adults including Mr. Carter. The group will leave from Tampa and will join another group from Mainland High School in Daytona. The trip is being arranged through Charles Schleneth and Associates Travel Organization which is based in Michigan.

"I hope it doesn't fall!"

Friction and Ferment

On August 8 the Nation was astounded with the news that Richard M. Nixon was resigning his office of President of the United States. His post was filled by Gerald Ford who became our 38th president. The resignation of Richard Nixon was a first. Never before has a President left office by resignation. Many believe that the pressures of the Watergate Scandal and his steadily decreasing lack of support in the Congress brought him to the decision to leave office.

This was only one incident in many that clearly showed the year 74-75 to be a year of change — a year in which the old ideas and ways of life were replaced by newer concepts, and, in some cases, the old would just remain the same no matter what forces tried to cast it down.

It was a year of War and Peace. Blood was shed, Treaties were signed and independent countries born. On the small, obscure, island of Cyprus violence erupted by two ancient countries, Turkey and Greece. Many Americans watched with some despair hoping this would not be another Vietnam or Korea. The condition in the Middle East was neither good or bad. While no major war broke out there was still no peace. Guerilla activities were common. Arabs striking Israelis and Israelis retaliating, perhaps the worst part of this type of warfare is that civilians were the prime casualties. Hostilities continued in Vietnam, even though most Americans believed that when U.S. troops left Vietnam so did the war. But in at least one part of the world there was an end to war. In the three small African countries of Guinea, Angola and Mozambique 500 years of Portuguese colonialism, the last 13 years mired in bloody civil war, was ended as Portugal left Africa giving its three former colonies independence.

Our Economic System suffered a recession this year, with most major industries having to resort to the laying off of employees. Unemployment lines increased as people found themselves jobless. The major car companies copied the income tax bill which offered many people a rebate on the tax money they paid. The car manufacturers offered a cash rebate to those who bought the new "75" cars, it was done to step up sales. The price of sugar rose drastically along with just about everything else ranging from bubble gum to meat.

We didn't experience the long gas lines that we had seen last year for they seemed to disappear almost magically as the price of gas jumped to 59 cent a gallon. Unfortunately many American people thought that the disappearance of the gas lines meant the disappearance of the energy crisis. But this was not true, while the crisis was not felt so hard it was still there. The Arab Nations still had us over a barrel and many people searched for new supplies of oil. One such area was found in Mexico. And many experts believe that this new find could reduce our dependence upon the Arab nations. While this was good news it was still not the answer; even eventually this source would be depleted. So the search for new types of energy continued during 1975 with more nuclear power plants being built and experiments in solar energy continued

The sports world went on through all of this, giving the people brief moments of relaxation from the outside world. The Oakland A's won the World Series again defeating the Cincinnati Reds. In Football, the Pittsburgh Steelers proved they were winners by defeating the Minnesota Viking. Also, the World Football League, which made the headlines when many NFL players jumped to the new league for higher salaries, never really got off the ground. Many players received no pay, and quite a number of teams collapsed into bankruptcy due to lack of attendance and general management. Many Americans were amazed when a man named Evil Knievel announced that he was going to jump Snake River Canyon in Idaho in a sky cycle. The canyon which was 600 feet deep and about 1,600 feet wide proved an awesome obstacle but Knievel thought he could tackle it. And on Sept. 8 as Knievel finished last minute details millions of people waited for the news of his success or failure. Almost immediately after the take-off the parachute in the sky cycle opened and Knievel floated helplessly but safely to the bottom of the canyon. Later, he said the opening of the chute was a mechanical breakdown. Others thought it was planned, but either way it was still some show. The Heavyweight Championship changed hands this year; champion George Foreman was defeated by former champion Muhammed Ali.

There were other events which took place this year that seemed to be overshadowed by the more dire news of the world. The plans were being finalized for an American-Soviet space rendezvous, the first joint space shot ever. For some Americans, a new law passed this year was good news. The purchase of gold by a citizen was made legal December 31. The birth rate in America continued on the decline which is certainly good news. It was reported that American women were producing babies at the rate of 1.9 per family as opposed to 3.6 per family in the 1960's. This year also marked the 30th birthday of rock star Mick Jagger. It's hard to believe the Rolling Stones have been around that long. We also saw the coming of a new fad called "streaking," it seemed everywhere people were shedding their clothes to run down a busy street or a public building. But the fad seemed to drop off with the coming of winter. After all who wants to get frost bite. For many Vietman draft evaders this year was welcome. Last Sept. President Ford offered conditional amnesty for the evaders. It is estimated that 120,000 have applied.

It was a year of great change, and it opened many of our eyes to what was really going on in the outside world. Many of us grew more concerned and knew that just by closing our eyes all the troubles of the world would not disappear. All in all it was a year of trial and tribulation of happiness and joy and of preparation for our future.

A look into the future

Along with trying to show the events and the changes of this year, we would also like to show what next year has in store for those who will be attending CRHS.

The dress code which was revised this year looks as though it is going to remain the same with halters and other types of clothing prohibited. The smoking area, a new addition this year, was met with general approval from both students and faculty members should still be kept clean. It failed to be included in the budget because the item is not

The school board has decided to cancel all county sports for the remainder of the year. The board will have to be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. But out-of-county sports will probably be continued. The administration has been trying to cut costs for the last few months. They are also trying to make the best of the situation. But with a new teacher coming in, it's hard to say what will happen.

1. The first step in the process of creating a new product is to identify a market need or opportunity. This can be done through market research, competitor analysis, and customer feedback. Once a need is identified, it is important to define the product's features and benefits, as well as its target audience.

2. The second step is to develop a business plan. This includes defining the product's value proposition, identifying key partners and suppliers, and establishing financial projections. A solid business plan is crucial for securing funding and launching the product successfully.

3. The third step is to prototype the product. This involves creating a physical or digital representation of the product, often using low-cost materials or software. Prototyping allows for testing and refining the product before investing in full-scale production.

4. The fourth step is to manufacture the product. This may involve working with a manufacturer or supplier to produce the product in bulk. It is important to ensure that the manufacturing process is efficient and cost-effective.

5. The fifth step is to launch the product. This involves marketing the product to potential customers through various channels such as social media, email newsletters, and partnerships. It is important to have a clear marketing strategy and message to attract customers.

6. The sixth step is to monitor and evaluate the product's performance. This involves tracking sales, customer feedback, and market trends to determine if the product is meeting its intended goals. If necessary, adjustments can be made to the product or marketing strategy.

7. The seventh step is to scale the product. This involves expanding the product's reach and increasing production volume to meet demand. It may also involve launching the product in new markets or developing new product variants.

8. The eighth step is to maintain the product. This involves addressing customer concerns, updating the product based on feedback, and ensuring that the product remains competitive in the market.

Vibes & Gemigs and Organizations

Many people influence the way that our school is maintained and run . . .

Who makes the decisions that influence how our school will be run? Who makes policies, decides about the budget, selects the administrators and ultimately the teachers decide what's important and what isn't and generally runs the show.

For Citrus County, most of the local responsibilities fall on Roger Weaver, who is the Superintendent of Schools, and the School Board, which is composed of John Hodges, Richard Kaufman, John Zellner, David Langer, and Wayne Rolph, and is often aided by the advice of Bill Edwards, the attorney for the board. Orpha Brown is the

GOALS INSPECTOR
On a more immediate level Frank Walker, naturally, has the burden of responsibility. This year, for the first time, he was aided by the School Advisory Committee. This Committee, which was organized in compliance with Florida law, is designed to participate in the decisions concerning educational needs, help in the planning of the education program in the budget, and assist in providing support of parents, teachers, students, and the community for school programs. It is made up of three faculty members (Wilda Bowston, Phyllis Beall, and Bruce Douglas), four students (Karen Cooper, Pat Jenkinson, Kathy Lord, and Arelene Sawyer), and community members (Marjorie Copeland, L. E. Book Cunningham, Don DeVane, Carol Dumas, M. O. Hove, John Green, Eric Jenner, Harry Marand, Leon Thomas, and Patricia Wragg).

"Tell me all about it . . ."

Our principal

We got a new principal this year, Frank Walker. He is familiar to most of us because formerly he was an ag. teacher, and many of us were in his classes. We still see him helping out a lot in that area because of his vast amount of experience and training, gained at the U. of F. and added to since then.

However, being a principal does seem to have altered him some. He's changed his style of dress entirely, and now he looks like a well-dressed businessman instead of comfortable Mr. Walker. Also, he doesn't smile as much. Could it be that being a principal isn't as easy as some of us think it is?

Mr. Walker seems to be a very down-to-earth sort of man who believes in rules and in going by the book. We have noticed some of the effects of this, especially where the dress code and registration is concerned. He also seems to be trying very hard to make sure that everyone knows what's expected of him or her and does what's expected.

The big man on campus

The man who gives us "the word"

Along with the many other changes, we saw another familiar face from a different point of view. Craig Marlett, who was one of the biology teachers last year, surprised us this year as we showed up for school and found him as our assistant principal.

Along with the rather demanding job of disciplining and directing the students, he remained coach of the junior varsity football team. He was also in charge of the Student Intern program, which involves students traveling to the primary and middle schools to help teachers stimulate involvement and understanding among the younger students.

In his spare time Mr. Marlett enjoys all the water sports we have available, being with his family, and sporting about in his little Healy (which he gets to bail out every time it rains).

"That's a good story."

Bill Robinson, our high school supervisor and the County Coordinator of Accreditation, oversees independent study, curriculum development, improvement, and revision. Helene Worthington is the Director of Manpower Services for Citrus County. The federal program she works under is designed to offer work experience, educational opportunities, and on-the-job training to the economically disadvantaged, the unemployed, and the under-employed. Robert Smith, occupational specialist, assists students after they leave school in getting jobs or furthering their educations. He also makes us aware of the career choices to be made. Dorothy Williams, who keeps everything running smoothly, is our school secretary and bookkeeper. Phyllis Bealle keeps the attendance records and knows where we are. Sue Landers is the teachers' aide and does all she can to help them. Debbie Mashburn is in charge of the school books and types a lot of computer cards for registration.

Council

The Student Council welcomed students back to school by beginning the school year with a week of activities called Howdy Week. The week was climaxed by a diving competition, won by Marvin Driver, and a rally in which classes competed in various contests.

The council also sponsored victory dances during the football season as well as a homecoming dance. In the homecoming week competition, sponsored by the Council, classes competed against each other in contests in order to gain class points. How would you like to have heartburn from slopping from pie to pie to beat your opponents in the pie-eating contest or maybe you'd prefer a sour face from eating lemons in the lemon-eating contest? Well, this was only part of all the fun that the Student Council had planned for homecoming week.

Over the past years the Council has been in charge of the Cove. However, this year the Cove was given to the Decca Club, which is now in charge of it.

Homecoming and Howdy Week were only part of the Council's plans for the remainder of the year; they also helped to promote school spirit throughout the year.

Ag is doing!

For those of us who enjoy being outside close to nature and learning about farming in every sense of the word, agriculture courses have a lot to offer.

In the basic ag. course we garden, raise field crops and livestock (pigs, cows, horses, rabbits, and chickens), learn how to drive tractors and use farm implements, learn about the economics of farms and how to care for livestock (castrating, artificial insemination, etc.) and get a pretty good idea of what farming is all about.

If we take farm mechanics, we learn about all kinds of machines used in ag., both on land and water. We overhaul and repair tractors and fix inboard boat engines for members of the community. This course coupled with small engine mechanics (in which we fix lawn mowers, garden tractors, and outboard engines), gives us a lot of the know-how we need and at the same time provides a service to the people around us. The same is true of welding in which we repair boat trailers, utility trailers, trailer hitches, farm implements, and desks and etc. for school.

We can also study forestry and landscape maintenance. The school owns a small forest which we maintain, prune, and sell timber from. In this course we also worked on the baseball field, prepared the football field before the start of the season, and cleared land behind the school.

Future Farmers

The F.F.A. is open to students who have taken at least one quarter of an agriculture class, and, as long as they remain actively involved in agriculture, they may continue to be members until they reach twenty-one. To become a member, one must pay an initiation fee and then go through an initiation which involves going about the school with green hands and other niceties.

F.F.A. members participate in all sorts of "conventions," as their president Tom Evans calls them, and workshops which keeps the group actively involved in all stages of agriculture.

Talent and ability is shown throughout the school by the work of our artistic students. Whether in drawing, ceramics, sculptures or creative tissue paper designs to color our windows the art class shines through.

Many of the creations were exhibited in the office for the rest of us to admire. With the help of the art teachers, Mrs. Downing and Mrs. Thrasher, the art classes really added to the appearance of C R H S.

Get in step, beat the drum, go band!

The band, under the able direction of Mike Cothran, provided enthusiasm, entertainment, and a needed amount of spirit which helped push our team to victory.

Many innovations took place. These included the addition of flag girls, new silver drums and majorette uniforms, and the organization of a Band Boosters Club.

Besides putting on concerts, the band participated in a marching contest in Gainesville, aroused spirit at pep rallies, and supported the victorious pirates in the Rotary Bowl game at Santa Fe!

The Pirettes have contributed color to our band with their impressive flag maneuvers, which are coordinated with the band's movements as they march along.

The Majorettes are also hard at work. They practiced Monday through Thursday of each week after school in order to put together and synchronize their routines. On special occasions they twirled fire batons, thus creating an extraordinary light show.

Some changes!

Did you know that some exciting things have been going on in chorus? The performing style has been changed from the usual concert type to one more suitable for television, which the chorus is becoming very involved in. For the first time a music library is being organized and compiled; all the music will be catalogued and classified. In addition, a record collection is being put together, and Mr. Williams expects it to consist of eight-hundred records.

As a project to carry into next year they are planning on providing music for the "Pirate's Network" television station; this will involve singing jingles, commercials, and background music. The chorus showed us some of their talents when they presented a television program, filmed by the E.T.V. class, in conjunction with Music Day on March 13. They sang many different types of songs in various settings, and the agriculture department helped by providing the livestock necessary for a rural scene.

Debit? Credit? Take dictation?

Those of us who plan to go into business or business-related careers learn the basic skills we will need to know and what to expect when we get out into the working world.

We are offered a variety of courses: typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, clerical office practice, and business law. In these we learn how to type with accuracy and speed; take dictation; keep different types of records (balance sheets, journals, ledgers, accounts payable, accounts receivable, and memorandums); and maintain a professional office atmosphere. In business law we study basic law, contracts, real estate law and practices, and insurance.

We have an extremely well-equipped business suite in which to learn and work. This fact, coupled with the diversity of courses offered, affords us an excellent opportunity to prepare ourselves for the jobs we will have in later life.

DECA provides job opportunities

DECA meets job-oriented needs and goals.

The Distributive Education Clubs of America is a new organization on campus. The purpose of the club is to give the students an opportunity to earn credits by working full or part time on a job of their own choosing and to teach them how our free enterprise system functions.

The D E C A. club successfully raised money by a fish fry and a chicken dinner. The group took over the Pirates Cove and made some changes in it in the process. They also gave Christmas baskets to the needy.

The main objectives of these fund-raising drives were to send the officers to the annual D E C A. convention in Miami and to provide funds for their annual employee-employer banquet.

Guidance — solving problems, fixing schedules, offering help

"Good news! We've got your class down to forty."

"It's under 'O', Coach!"

"These cum. folders are such fun!!!"

Need help? See guidance!

A counselor's job is a busy one which requires full dedication and a heaping helping of patience. Many of us asked for help and guidance during the troublesome years of high school, and our two long-suffering counselors, "Coach" Dabney and Mrs. White, and our cheerful secretary Mrs. Damron were there to help us.

Sometimes they were hampered by the registration tangle which put an immense work load on them, especially first quarter when hundreds of schedules had to be rearranged. They constantly had to deal with goofed up schedules and the problem of trying to keep our classes from being too terribly overcrowded.

Often they had to take the brunt of the hard feelings engendered by being forced to lock some of us into unwanted schedules because of overcrowding and trying to straighten out the former registration snarl.

The guidance department served as an information center, concerning vocations, college placement, and the military. Guidance planned and administered the PSAT., A.C.T., and Senior Placement tests and helped us arrange to take the College Boards.

Learning about everyday life, running our own restaurant

Most of us will have homes and families of our own some day, and we'll need to know how to budget our money economically; plan meals, and buy and prepare food; and make the best use of our time and resources in creating a pleasant home environment. We'll want to make educated choices about housing, home furnishings, child rearing, and many other concerns which will be facing us.

Home economics not only helps us prepare for later life, but also offers us knowledge which we can use right now. Many of us like to sew, and we enjoy taking the various courses from beginning sewing to tailoring. Some of us have assumed greater responsibilities at home, and what we have learned in home ec has come in handy. Others of us have jobs after school working in restaurants, and Miss Alexander's food services classes offered us some valuable practice.

Many of the faculty members enjoy the Pirate's Inn, which has become a well-established lunch spot for them on Thursdays. It was started last year and operates during the second and third quarters. This allows us practical application of the skills taught in Miss Alexander's food services class as well as a special place for the teachers to have lunch once a week.

English fulfills our cultural needs . . .

Communication is one of the most important parts of learning. The English department organized our minds and developed our use of logic by creating interesting learning situations involving literature and grammar. The reading classes were enriched by developing useful skills for the present and the future. Classes ranged from corrective to developmental reading.

The freshmen and sophomores studied basic fundamentals of English involving grammar, literature, reports, debates, and speeches. While the juniors chose specialized classes such as the short story, the novel, creative writing, world literature and many more. These classes fulfilled the needs created by their varied interests. The seniors who were college bound formed Colonel Feehan's senior English class which involved many studies preparing the seniors for college.

Gaining newspaper experience . . .

Those of us who are budding young journalists or who are simply interested in taking a stimulating as well as productive class in newspaper reporting and production profit a great deal from the experience we gain putting out the Doubloon. We learn correct techniques for gathering information, conducting interviews, writing articles and headlines, and basic newspaper production.

Mrs. Reichers, who sponsors the newspaper, is an experienced journalist and brings a truly professional approach to the entire experience.

For the first time the Picaroon, a small mimeographed newspaper designed to come out more frequently than the larger Doubloon, appeared on campus. It, along with the Doubloon, kept all of us up to date on the news around the school. Another first was that the Doubloon was printed by a professional printer instead of being mimeographed.

"This stuff isn't easy."

Pretty good

"How else could I say that?"

Capturing a year in print?

What's involved in putting out a yearbook? We'll tell you. You have to learn how to write and fit kickers, headlines, copy, and captions. You have to learn a new vocabulary: picas, bleeds, spreads, signatures, flats, characters, and etc. (ad nauseum). You learn how to put all the stuff you've come up with onto pages in some semblance of order. You learn to yell louder than anybody when you're in desperate need of a picture, and if it isn't there, you get to be great friends with the rest of the staff because you spend so much time with them, not only in class but also after school, on weekends, on holidays, all the time. You also get to know former staff members, like April Antunes, who rush over to help when a dreaded deadline is staring you in the face. You learn what it's like to be responsible for something that people have invested their money in and expect some good results. You get to dredge up money through ad sales and subscriptions. It's a real thriller. But, for some reason, it's worth it.

Along with reading and studying plays, the drama class learned the techniques of pantomime, wrote and played in short skits, and watched dramatic productions on T.V. Much of this was done in the preparation for a spring play which the Drama class hoped to be able to put on for the school.

Languages!!!

Those of us who want to can become bilingual or even trilingual by taking advantage of the courses offered to us in Spanish and French. The classes not only offer opportunities to learn the language but also go deeper. We learn about the various cultures, the people, cook French and Spanish dishes, and participate in many varied learning experiences.

In Spanish, which consists of Spanish one through four, we begin by holding conversations based on the text, but then we go beyond this. We see films, use the language lab, investigate different aspects of life in Spanish-speaking countries, cook (tacos, gazpacho, enchiladas, Spanish wedding cake, and etc.), make projects, and take an active part in the learning experience with the guidance of Jim Carter who has lived in Spain. Two new opportunities were added this year in that some students went on a trip to Mexico and we now have a Spanish honor society, with the Carmen Laforet charter, which initiated its first members.

The French courses, which were first offered last year, consist of French one and French two and are taught by Barbara Veal. The opportunities to learn which are offered to us in French are quite similar to those offered in Spanish except that in the second year, when free and easy conversation is the goal, we are urged to communicate only in French as we play French bingo and monopoly games in a weekly game session.

Helping us find some answers

If I wanted to build a fence how many board feet would I need? How much should I be paid for working five hours overtime at time-and-a-half pay? How do I know I'm not being cheated when I pay for something? These are some of the questions a basic understanding of math helps us answer for ourselves.

However, the knowledge we're offered in our math classes goes far beyond this. We can study geometry, algebra, consumer math, modern math, and other more advanced courses. One very advanced course, math analysis, for those of us who are deeply interested in math and math theory was added this year.

Mrs. Reeder sponsors the Beta Club, an honorary organization for students who maintain a "B" average. One of the pleasant things this club does for us is to decorate the lunchroom for holidays like Christmas and Thanksgiving. An added bonus to members is the convention which they attend each year.

N.J.R.O.T.C.

The N.J.R.O.T.C. Unit has in the past four years taught the many students about seamanship, leadership, and what the armed services are all about.

Part of the N.J.R.O.T.C. Unit went to Orlando Naval Training Center to let the cadets see what Navy life was like. They attended regular classes on water safety, gun safety, and fire fighting.

This year the N.J.R.O.T.C. Unit was given a surplus minesweeping boat. The MSB is 57 feet long, draws three feet of water, and has twin diesel engines. The MSB-26 is being used by the N.J.R.O.T.C. Unit for training the cadets for the future.

E.T.V. gets it all on tape Interested in t.v.? work with it!

Many of us who wish to pursue careers in electronics or television learn a great deal of useful information and techniques from E.T.V. (meaning educational television). This is a series of courses dealing with broadcasting and utilizing our closed-circuit television system. It includes training us to use the audio-visual equipment (projectors, tape recorders, and etc.) which we operate for teachers in the various classrooms. An additional bonus which this program offers to all of us is that many television programs which are of special interest are video taped as they are broadcast and then shown in our classes at the appropriate times.

The sports program also benefits because many of our games are video taped and then shown to the coaches so that they can analyze our mistakes and our good points. It is a great help to be able to see what happened in order to figure out why it did.

"It was backwards?!?"

Mary Cannon

Aardvarks Able

One of the main assets our library has is Mrs. Cannon, our librarian. She is always willing to offer help and guidance to us when we're having difficulty locating information we need for projects or research papers. She remembers many of our interests and invariably points out new books or magazines we might enjoy. She makes the library become a friendly, interesting, enjoyable place for many of us, and we thank her for it.

So, as in past years, the library continues to be a pleasurable, interesting spot despite the fact that its space was reduced by one third this year due to a pressing need for more classroom space and several classes meet in it on a regular basis.

"Gee, where's the answer for this?"

Which bone is which? Can I add on the slide rule? Do I have to dissect that cat?

These are just a few of the questions the science department tackled. Courses offered ran the gamut from life science to physics, and we will be sampling more of the course offering because many of us will no longer have only one year of science. Starting with this year's freshman class we will be required to take physical science and at least one other science course before we graduate.

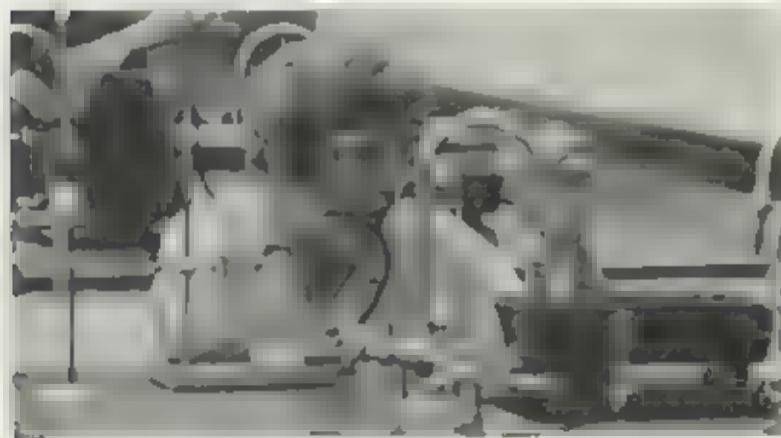

An excitement was created within us as we were urged to find reasons behind everyday things.

The new advanced physical science class, which is primarily lab-oriented, made soap, grew crystals, and developed new insight into the world which surrounds us.

For the first time the physics and chemistry classes were scheduled to go on the annual trip to the Marine Science Station along with the biology classes. There, we go on collecting trips, drag the Gulf with nets, examine our "catch," and discover what kind of habitat the plants and animals live in.

During the year we combed the area for the plants we needed for advanced biology; took, developed, and printed pictures for Mr. Coffee's photography class; played Dr. Jeckel in chem class; and learned a lot.

Physical education offers more than charley horses.

Stretching, sweating — learning!

To be a complete person one must be strong, not only mentally and emotionally but also physically. The physical education department helps us meet these needs. If we take advantage of all that is offered to us in the P.E. program we can develop: an understanding of our bodies' limits and strengths; more coordination and stamina; the ability to function as a member of a team, and many of the skills we will use in lifetime sports such as golf and tennis. Team sports such as football, soccer, basketball, and baseball are ever popular; but individual competition in areas like tennis, golf, track, and gymnastics is also stressed.

Physical education not only offers us the opportunity to participate in physical activities but it also offers us knowledge about our bodies. Health, a required course, is designed to ensure that we gain an understanding of: body functions and structure; how to keep ourselves well nourished and physically fit; and the abuses which many people subject their bodies to and the damage that is done because of this.

Driver's education is required by the state of Florida if we want to be licensed drivers at sixteen (instead of waiting until we're eighteen) and we're offered this course through the physical education department. We learn the Florida laws pertaining to driving, automobile safety practices and techniques, defensive driving skills, and good driving habits. The course involves both classroom study and actual driving experience.

The P.E. Department also sponsors the Lettermen club under the guidance of Coach Douglas which consist of all varsities sports participants. The entire membership votes to determine which of its members are awarded letters. The club sponsored "Fifties Day" when we were asked to dress up in bobby socks and the whole fifties get up. They presented skits and put on a fifties dance in order to raise money for the athletic program.

The social studies department offers some answers.

What's happened? What is real? Who am I?

We question. And many of us really want to know. The social studies department provides us with some answers and tools with which to delve into our world and find some others.

The course offering, including geography, world history, American history, cultural geography and civics, offers an opportunity to develop good factual backgrounds regarding cultures, institutions and society. Psychology and sociology, a course which was added this year, led us to a more complete understanding of ourselves and others.

With the economic situation getting worse and the school budget getting tight, the lunchroom ladies tried to keep the quality of the lunches up to par. Often we noticed the amount of food getting smaller, but this was unavoidable. The custodians also had a rough time. The increase in students brought an increase in the general litter, but the diligent effort they were able to keep the school clean for the most part.

The Withlacoochee Vocational-Technical Center offers a lot

Let's get on the bus for Vo-Tech

Experience . . .

Many of us who were juniors and seniors got on the bus every day for our trip to Vo-Tech Courses at the Withlacoochee Vocational-Technical Center offered us an excellent opportunity to escape the classroom situation and to be outside learning job skills we can use when we graduate. There was some book work and reading, but the courses largely consisted of "practical" experience

We were offered courses in: auto-body paint and repair, mechanics, welding, building construction, commercial electricity, ornamental horticulture, law enforcement, and individual office education. So there were many opportunities for us to acquire and practice skills that are in demand in today's job market

Mr. James McCay, principal

Vo-Tech is . . .

The curriculum is based primarily upon the particular skills in demand, as reflected by area industry and business; however, skills developed in the Center will also enable the student to be productive in many other areas of the country. Courses are designed to provide basic skills together with a theoretical background upon which advancement depends.

The primary function of the Center is to select those who, by their abilities and interests in their plans for the future, would benefit most from a specific and concentrated vocational background. The environment, education, and guidance which they experience at the Center will assist them in obtaining a position upon graduation.

Auto body repair & paint

Those of us who are interested in working in auto body shops or related areas find the courses in auto body repair and painting very worthwhile. In them we learn: how to straighten and repair sheet metal; the proper techniques for sanding, masking, and painting; how to repair vinyl tops; and procedures for light welding and doing frame work.

"This looks about right."

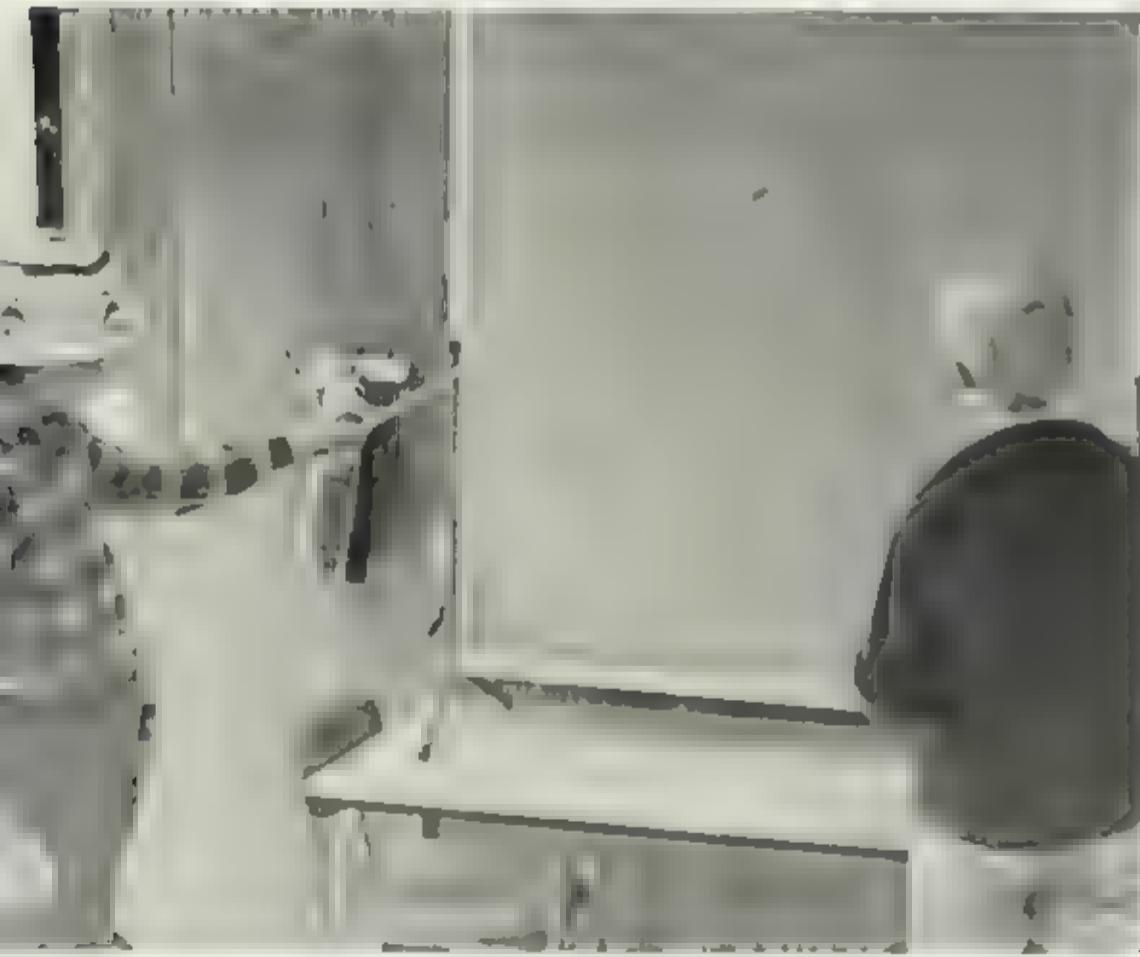

"Look, this is what I meant . . ."

Electricity

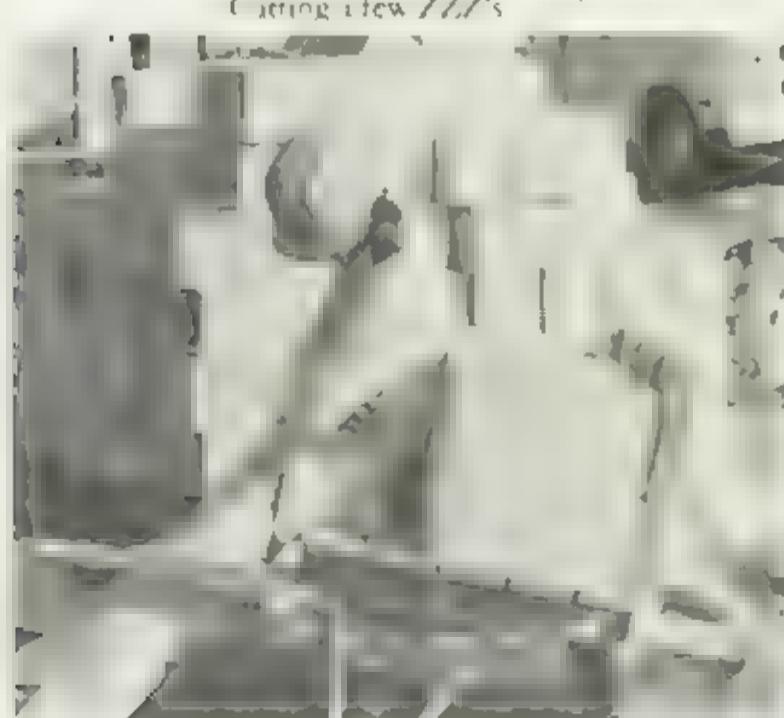

Some of us find electricity fascinating and would like to be electricians. In the courses in commercial electricity we can learn many of the skills that we would need to go on in this field. We receive training in the layout and installation of wiring systems and fixtures in buildings. We lay conduit, install switch plates, pull wires, splice wires together, test circuits, and perform other duties and jobs required of an electrician. We also learn the theory, mathematical skills, and necessary codes which are vital for those working in commercial electricity to know.

Learning the skills needed in building Construction

In construction trades many of us are learning about four different but related occupations: block masonry, carpentry, plumbing, and electrical wiring. We are offered group instruction in the basic knowledge and skills that are common to all four of these occupations. We are taught building mathematics, drawing, how to read blueprints, how to use hand and power tools, the use of measuring tools, how to plan work and make estimates, and are offered other occupational information. Then we practice what we've been taught through doing actual projects. Because this is a two-year program, we are able to gain an understanding of all four occupations and then specialize in the second year.

"A professional-looking job, David!"

Students learn basic concepts and skills

Many of us are interested in helping people who are ill or hurt, and health services offers us the opportunity to learn the basic skills and concepts which we need to know to do this.

In this program we can learn many of the techniques necessary to be a bed-side nurse, to work as a lab assistant, to be an x-ray assistant, or to assist in physical therapy.

We are offered a foundation period of classroom instruction which includes basic nursing skills, functions of the body and nutrition. As we go on into putting this knowledge to work we are helped and supervised.

"I think she's dead!"

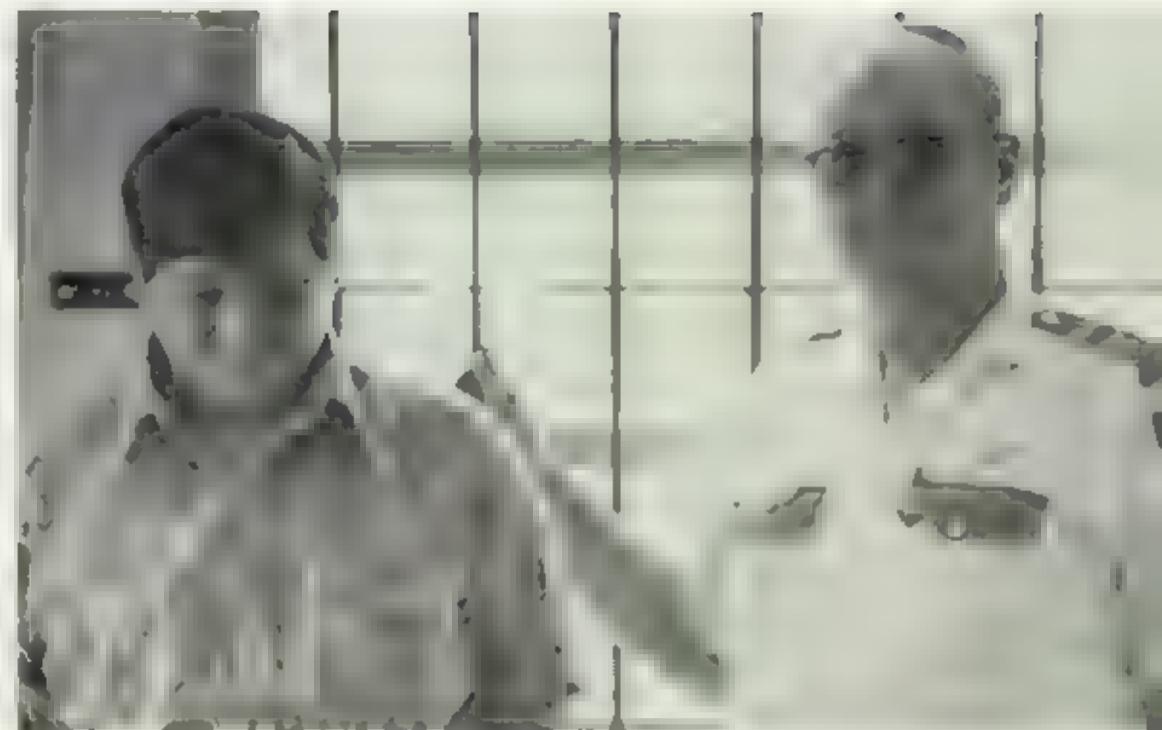

Law & its men

In this day of a lack of respect for the law and those who enforce it, some of us are taking advantage of the opportunity to find out more about what actually happens and what law enforcement officers are really like.

Through this law enforcement course, we are introduced to the careers of various people in law enforcement and are offered a general understanding of the actual administration of criminal justice and techniques of implementing law enforcement operations.

We study the history of policing, constitutional and civil rights, processes of justice, pre-trial processes, communications, calisthenics, gun safety and use, and defensive tactics. On-the-job experience is gained in local law enforcement agencies.

"See, this is an example of the paperwork."

Do you think I'll get off?

Yes, I'm not afraid of being a judge!

Mechanics supplies opportunities for ingenuity and exploration

What makes things run?

Lots of us enjoy knowing how things run and are very interested in being able to keep them running. In automotive mechanics we are able to learn how to perform a wide variety of jobs on many different makes and kinds of vehicles. The training we receive involves our gaining experience through working on cars.

A mechanic's daily routine involves disassembling and overhauling engines, transmissions, clutches, rear ends, and braking systems. He grinds valves, aligns wheels, tunes engines, and does innumerable other jobs which gives his day variety and purpose. We are able to learn to do these many things and therefore cultivate a true job skill.

"You really think this will get us high?"

The spark plug cleaner trick

What's ornamental horticulture and turf-grass management?

Plants. Plants!

Coming from a primarily agricultural community, many of us are interested in plants. In addition, Florida is high on the list of producers of all horticultural products and is number one in the production of citrus fruits and products, chrysanthemums and foliage plants. This means that there are many job opportunities in this area, which is another spur to our interest.

In ornamental horticulture and turf-grass management, we are offered training and the opportunity to practice what we learn about fruits, vegetables, flowers, ornamental plants, managing and maintaining turf-grass, propagation, processing, and sales. Many of us seem to really enjoy working with plants and digging in the soil as well as gaining knowledge about all aspects of the field.

'I sure hope this comes off.'

Could you help me find the error?"

Learning the office skills

Those of us who are interested in becoming secretaries and office workers can learn the wide range of secretarial and clerical skills that would be needed in most offices through the courses in individualized office education and in clerical office practice.

After completing these courses, we can qualify to enter jobs as secretaries, receptionists, general office workers, file clerks, and clerk-typists. If we want to continue with our training, we can take one-year advanced courses in procedures needed by medical secretaries, legal secretaries and other advanced work. Bookkeeping is also offered.

"Hmm I'm almost done."

Welding is not only an occupation but an art

"Op art??!"

Welding is one of the more challenging occupations offered to us. Not only does it permit joining metals in construction of items and also the repairing of metal objects, but there are also very interesting possibilities for creativity in this field. Recently there has even been a demand for "op art" pieces made by some of our imaginative students from scrap iron

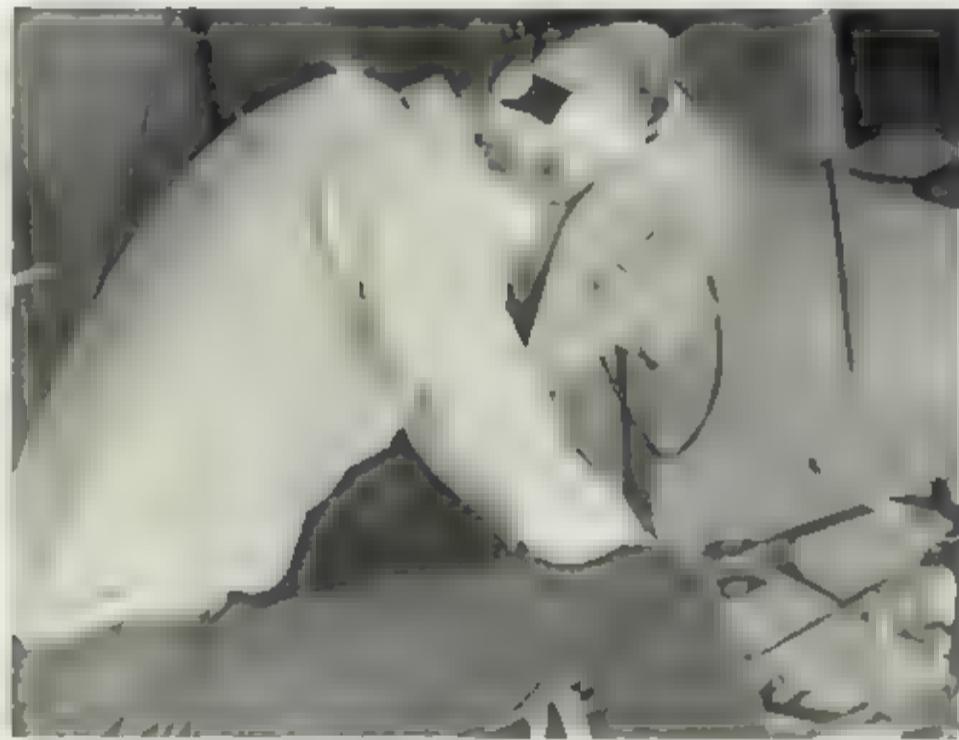

Many of us received training in principles, practices, and uses of welding together with practical application of welding skills. We also learned the properties of steel and how to work with it

UPPERCLASSMEN

What's ahead?

What do I do now? This was a common question we heard asked by members of the 1975 graduating class. Many of our seniors were rather nervous about the possibility of being able to find jobs — not necessarily great jobs, just any jobs. This was through no fault of their own, it just happened to be that the economy was in bad shape. In fact, some economists and politicians were saying that we were into the greatest recession since the Depression.

Another happening which was guaranteed to dampen spirits was that the Board of Regents was strongly considering eliminating freshman and sophomore courses of study at all the state supported universities with the exception of F.S.U., U. of F., and Fla. A & M because money was so short. This would mean that many of our seniors who were going to college would probably be going to junior colleges at first. This probably wasn't a terrible blow to many people since scholarship and loan money was hard to come by and few could afford to pay their own ways at a four-year college anyway. Private colleges were closing their doors all over the country because of a lack of funds and students.

Therefore, one thing that most of us noticed was that some members of this year's senior class appeared to be more serious and concerned than those who had come before. And they had reason to be.

What're you saying?

"Got any answers?"
"So much for #1"

Graduation nears . . .

"I a most got it."

Where'd it go? I just saw it.

However, this class wasn't one to let the world get it down. Romances still bloomed, the parties went on, and some exhibited a true "devil may care" attitude. The seniors even sponsored a sort of rock concert during an activity period which featured T.N.T. They brought the group back the next night to play for the homecoming dance which the seniors traditionally sponsor and then used the proceeds to buy a farewell gift for the school.

Disney World offered an atmosphere of fun and excitement for those seniors who went to Grad Night. They chartered buses and zipped over to Orlando for an evening of enjoyment with other seniors from all over the state. They heard bands especially hired to play for them, rode the rides, and frolicked into the morning hours.

Graduation, of course, was on everyone's mind although because of the quarter system and early graduation, not everyone graduated at the same time. However, the time came when each member of the class of '75 received his or her diploma and started on a new phase of life.

Upperclassmen at long last! Watch us go!

If you came back to school this year as a junior, the return didn't seem quite as bad. At long last we were beginning to see the end product of all the previous years of school. More responsibility as a class would be set upon us, but, if we could all pull together, we could manage events such as the prom with smooth efficiency.

Women's Lib invaded the junior class this year. Our president, officers and representatives were all female. If we had any doubts, at first, as to their ability, they were soon washed away as the junior class put their prom money-making machinery into motion.

Get serious?

It was their turn to sponsor the traditional junior-senior prom, so the juniors tried to get serious and get the plans started. They sponsored a financially successful shrimp dinner fairly early in the year and a few dances during first quarter. They looked like they were off to a fine start. But not all went smoothly. Someone had to run the show, make decisions, and see to it that things got done. The band and a place for the prom were two of the hottest issues being discussed. To put an end to all the confusion, Mr. Walker stepped in and helped the class to decide to hold the prom in the gym again this year. However, there was still a long way to go and a lot to be done. By the beginning of March and the end of second quarter, the plans for the prom were still up in the air, and little had been accomplished.

Unlike previous classes which felt like they were adults, this class knew they were still young and although life was serious they should still enjoy it. And they did.

PIRATE

1974, a good year for pirates!

643 . . . 643 . . . Ready . . . Set . . . Hut 1

Hut 2 . . . Hike! With these words, quarterback Mike Coover set into motion the beginning of the 1974-75 Pirates' Football season.

To achieve a winning fashion they drilled for many long, hard hours and weeks which insured us a winning season.

The defense, under the direction of Coach Douglas, proved to be one of the best in the conference. With strong tackles, Lemuel Watkins and Walt Hartman, along with the resourceful linebackers, Vic Tucker and Randy Hillis, they managed to contain our competitors rushing game. Karl Amundson made the defensive back field look good with his many sacks of the opposing quarterback.

Running the wishbone offense, Coach Hickey produced an effective combination using both Gary Damron and Joe Nasti, our one-two punch. If this wasn't enough to confuse our opponents, alternating halfbacks Jack Parker and Wayne Joyner were also capable rushers. On top of all this, receivers George Davis, Edenbur Richardson, and versatile tightend Anvy Owens managed to catch the occasional passes from sophomore Mike Coover and senior Ernest Hall.

Even though Coach Douglas and Coach Hickey were responsible for the defensive and offensive units, the head coach, Earl Bramlett set the game plans for each week and combined them together to form one proud, potent team.

All 34 players exhibited a winning attitude both on and off the field.

WILLISTON

The defense opened up the season with a shut-out over the Red Devils. Leading the defense were Karl Amundson and Anvy Owens making some of the key tackles. The Pirates contained Williston to only 77 yards and caused six fumbles. Joe Nasti sparked the offense into action by charging for 174 yards and three touchdowns. Gary Damron scored two field goals and the extra point to give the fans a victory.

GROVELAND

Rolling over the Groveland Greenies, the Pirates managed a total of 497 yards for the night. The fine blocking of the offensive line was responsible for many of the yards. George Davis caught three Coover passes for 61 yards while Gary Damron and Joe Nasti rushed for 163 and 160 yards respectively. Joe Nasti hit pay-dirt four times, as Gary Damron added on 16 points. Not to be outdone, the defense executed a great game by allowing only seven points which occurred in the last remaining seconds of the game. Walt Hartman and Anny Owens were the backbone of the vigorous defense as well as Ernest Hall's interception, giving the Pirates a 2-0 record.

CRYSTAL RIVER — 40 GROVELAND ...

GULF

Crystal River's next foe, Gulf, had just as tough and determined a team as we did. The three defensive players of the night were Randy Hillis, Vic Tucker, and Lemuel Watkins. The ball changed hands repeatedly because neither team could score during the first three quarters of play. Gulf's defense seemed to tire as the Pirate's offense clicked and was able to score. Gary Damron did the honors. Missing the extra point, the score stood 6-0. Gulf drove inside Pirate's territory only to have their quarterback sacked twice in a row. With fourth and 29 yards to go, the Pirates seemed headed for a victory. Gulf chose to pass only to have the ball deflected by several Crystal River players. A very questionable pass interference call gave the Bucs new life. Scoring seven points put them in the lead. The Pirates, working frantically against the clock, sputtered their way to the 12 yard line with Coover hitting his best receiver of the night Edenbur Richardson. No time outs left only 26 seconds. Crystal River decided to attempt a field goal; it was blocked, leaving the Pirates deprived of a victory.

CRYSTAL RIVER — 6 GULF — 7

Pirates puzzle the bulldogs!

Win or lose, Pirates keep pride!

HERNANDO

Despite three key injured players of the defensive line, we managed to hold Hernando's explosive offense for the first quarter and a half. Failure to control the ball and four costly fumbles to the Leopards, gave them a half time score of 14-0. Even though Leopards scored again third quarter, the Pirates did not give up! Fighting back in the final quarter the Pirates marched down to the four yard line and Joe Nasti sprinted across the goal line. Two-point conversion by Joe Nasti gave the Pirates eight points. Hernando kept possession of the ball for the remaining time and scored again. Even though the Pirates lost, they managed to hold their heads high and proudly walked off while Hernando could not respect the sportsmanship of a winner.

CRYSTAL RIVER — 8 HERNANDO — 31

ZEPHYRHILLS

After losing the last two games, we needed a big victory over the Bulldogs to lift our spirits. Joe Nasti after playing only the first half scored with 131 yards, accounting 16 points for the Pirates. The passing attack was more effective than ever in this game accounting for one touchdown by Mike Coover's net of the ball. The rest of the scores were the results of Mike Coover, Gary Damron, and Ernest Hall. Giving the starting defense a rest, we got to see some of our underclassmen perform, most notable among these were Dennis Bagwell and Phillip Stephens. Walt Hartman and Ednebur Richardson were also there to lend assistance. This win rebuilt our confidence.

CLERMONT

The game against Clermont was considered one of the best games the Pirates had ever played, winning it with the score 14-8. The first TD was scored by Mike Coover on a ten-yard dash. Then he tried a two-point attempt and made it. The Highlanders made eight points late in third quarter to tie the score. The offensive line of Crystal River put up a vicious fight to enable Joe Nasti to step over the goal line for six points, and the winning touchdown. Clermont, putting together a great offensive line, was halted by the crushing defense led by Walt Hartman and Vic Tucker. Effort and determination proved Pirates the best.

CRYSTAL RIVER — 14 CLERMONT — 8

LAKE WEIR

A strong defensive and offensive team stopped the Pirates dead in their tracks. Gary Damron with great efforts rushed for over one hundred yards, but it wasn't enough as we were not able to score until fourth quarter. The offense of Lake Weir was too quick for the defense as they were tested again and again thus leaving the Pirates a victim of Lake Weir.

Pirates win big homecoming

SOUTH SUMTER

Homecoming was a big victory for the Pirates as they won over the Raiders. Gary Damron and Joe Nast both ran off for over a hundred yards each. It appears that Crystal River's Mike Coover was a strong quarterback. On the defense side Dennis Bowell and Phillip Steward were other players of the night as well. K. L. Arnett and Wayne Lovner were picked off two of the Raiders passes. Defensive standout proved to be strong by shutting out the Raiders.

DUNNELLON

After a scoreless first quarter the Pirates came back to put eight points on the board. Randy Hays was the key man in the defensive line and also covered the ball. Due to a fumble the Tigers were forced to score. To confuse the opposition's defensive line Mike Coover and Ernest Hill eliminated the quarter back position. Running powerhouse Joe Nast accounted for 10 points and 162 yards. It was an easy victory for the Pirates.

CITRUS

Crystal River dominated the first half both in scoring and statistics, gaining 125 yards to 60 yards for Citrus. Quarterback Ernest Hall's 35 yard pass, fired to wingback Anvy Owens, set up a five yard scoring run by Joe Nasti. Nasti also made the extra two points. Seniors Sandy Hillis and Lemuel Watkins along with the rest of the defense kept the Hurricanes from scoring the first half. With 1:25 left in the half, Ernest Hall ran in for another touchdown. Citrus got a lucky break in the third quarter when Warren Brooks almost made an interception, only to have the ball bounce into the hands of a Citrus wide receiver who ran in for the score. Citrus came back again, tying the game 14-14. Crystal River offense was back in play when the ball was picked off by an opponent, who raced down the field to score. The Pirates were not through, and they carried the ball down the field. With less than two minutes to go, Citrus made a diving interception to stop the drive and preserve a victory for Citrus. Even though the score showed Citrus the victor, we felt proud of our team.

ROTARY BOWL

The first bowl game since 1968 proved to be a most thrilling one. Both teams were evenly matched. In the first half, the Pirates offense had trouble getting fired up and had to rely on the defense to keep Crystal River in the ball game by allowing only seven points. The Pirates came out of the locker room with winning confidence and scored a TD and a two-point conversion, making it an eight to seven edge. Santa Fe followed this with seven points and a seemingly victory. The Raiders kick-off was short and found the hands of George Davis who scrambled for over 50 yards to set up the final touchdown and the winning two-point conversion. This is the first time we have come from behind, showing a good offensive and defensive effort thus proving that spirited display could win.

j.v. spirit — an asset to a winning season!

"Pride's not just a word, it means to play your best as a team not just for individual goals," a quote by Coach Marlett that the team stood up to.

The Bandit defense was the key to a 5-3 season contributing to four shut-outs against Zephyrhills, Dunnellon, Hudson and Williston. With the two top leading rushers in the conference, Mike Watkins and Wally Stoney along with the help of Robert McKinnon and Doug McMahon they rushed for a total of 1,845 yards this season. The whole offensive line was just as responsible for the yards gained and the pass protection of the quarterback "Joe Mire" to complete his accurate passing to receivers, Jim Graham and David Bell.

Pride's the word!

Here come the Pirates!

Get it, Mark!

Bandits get their man!

Our team proved the meaning of "Blue Pride" by a hard-earned victory over Pasco. Pasco came on strong in the first half by scoring a questionable touchdown, but the Bandits blocked the extra point leaving the score at halftime 0-6. The second half was led by CR's Mark Cappola and Willie Cleveland snagging three interceptions to stop Pasco dead in their tracks.

Plays were running through Joe Mire's mind at the beginning of the third quarter. The ball was exchanged back and forth between the two teams, and then the Pirates started a drive which could not be stopped that led to eight points and a victory. This game had been the greatest challenge for the Pirates all year.

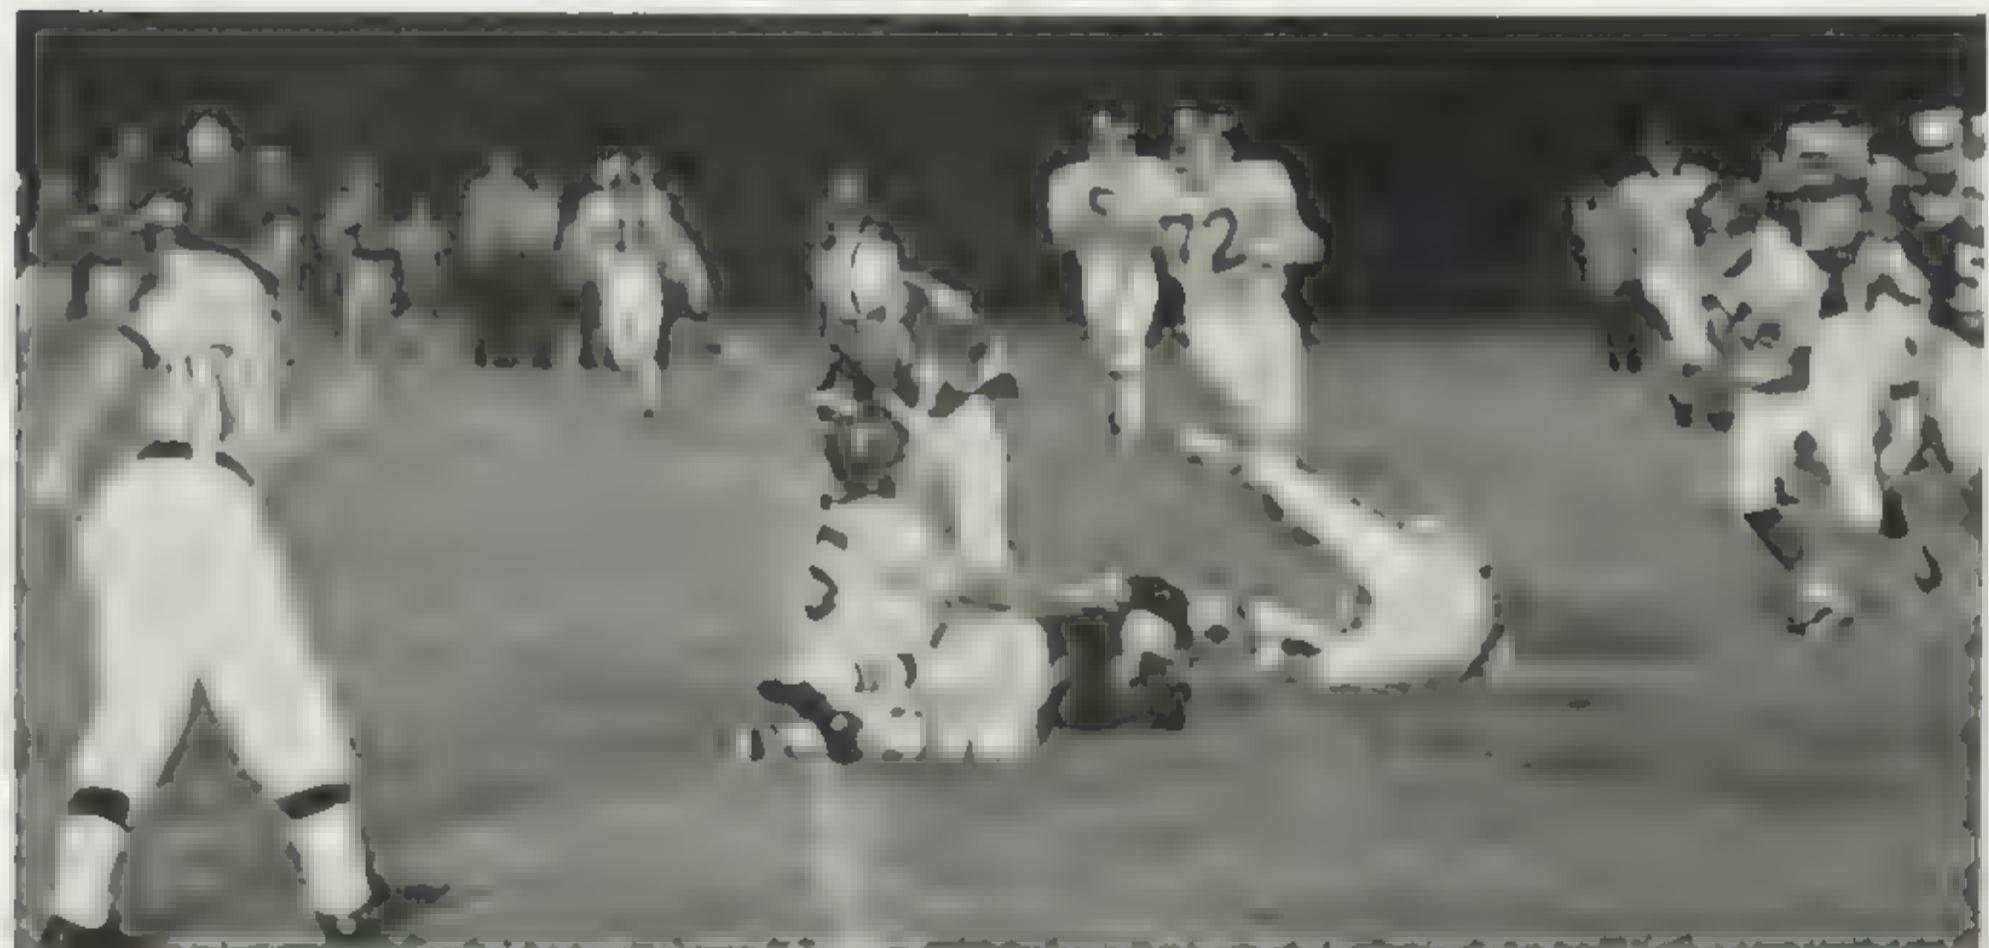

Mighty Pirates try to tie for first in Mid-Florida Conference

JV's pride was rising after three successive wins against Hudson, Williston, and Pasco. And, as we came to the close of the season, we were fired up for our bout with our arch rival, the Citrus "Hurricanes".

We all wanted to stomp Citrus into the ground. It wasn't only the fact that it was pride against pride, it was also that if we had beaten them we would have tied for the Mid-Florida Conference Title.

Everyone was "up" for the game, not only the players, but also the fans. Unfortunately, as often happens when the pressure to win mounts to maximum, we choked and couldn't get it together. We lost twenty to nothing, which was something that was hard to swallow. But, despite this, we still ended the season with our pride unbroken.

A gallant try

Even though a no wins, six losses season could lead us to believe we have little to look forward to in the next few years, we do. Lack of experience and knowledge, coupled with a very tough schedule, contributed greatly to the losing season. However, the freshmen upheld the word "pride" by giving it their all, never conceding defeat, and fighting gamely against unbeatable odds. Freshmen, we are proud of you.

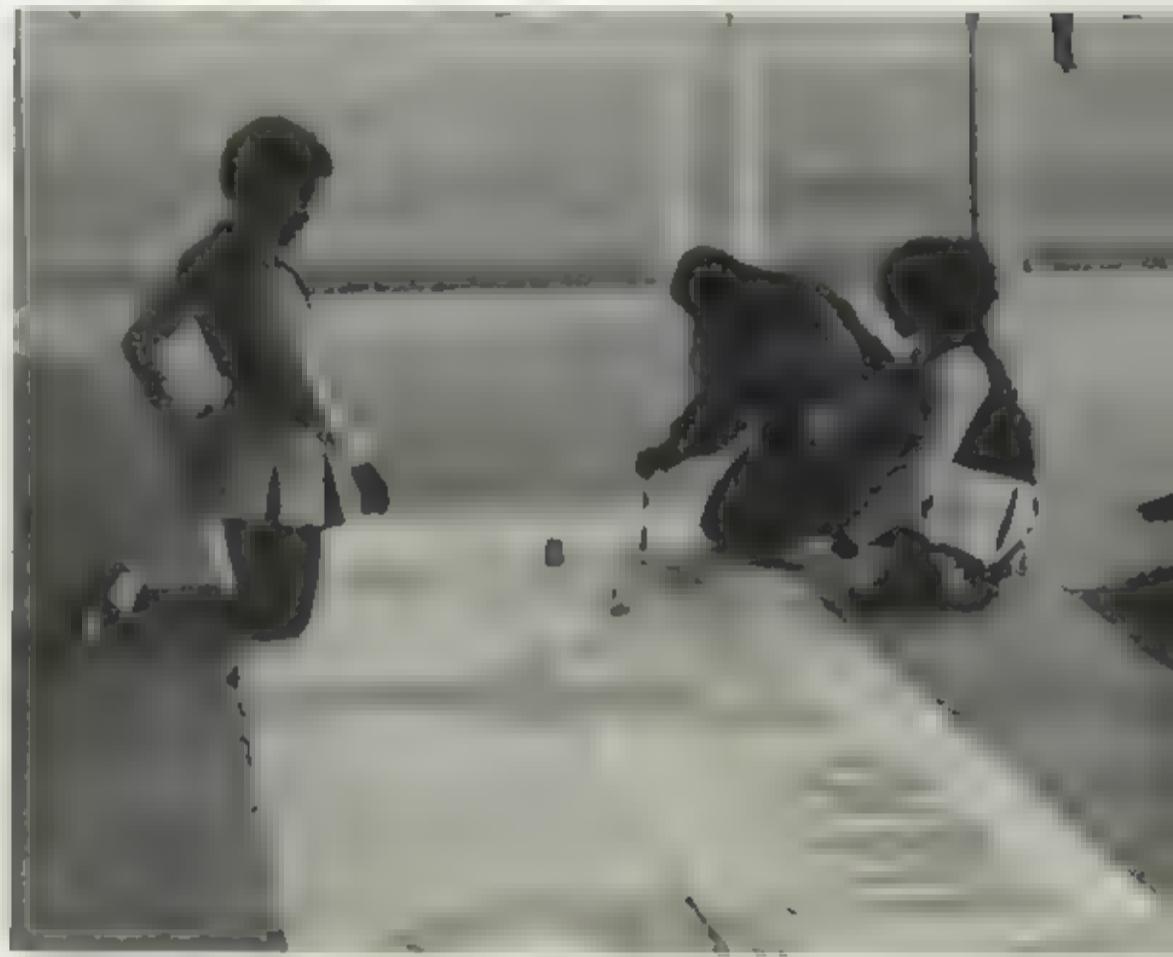

J.V. cheerleaders support our team

Painting posters, making tags, building spirit — that's J.V.!

They were the beginning of the flame called spirit. They worked hard in knowing the meaning of spirit, even when defeated. They enthused the crowds, expressed the joys and sorrows of the season but always kept their heads held high. They made beat tags and break throughs to keep the flame burning for the years to come. They were the beginning of the leaders of spirit.

Through the football and basketball seasons they were the ones who sold ads for the programs, participated in pep rallies, painted spirit posters, and traveled many miles on the bus to support our teams. They always wore a proud smile, even when defeated. They were the cheer leaders.

Varsity opens up a new season!

A good eight years for Coach Dabney!

Coach Dabney said that this year's varsity team was probably one of the best he has ever coached. The Pirates showed a lot of potential. But due to the long Christmas break without a game, they lost some of their winning form. Losing against teams the Pirates had previously beaten, they lost all hope of dethroning Lake Weir as conference champs. Even though they did not win the conference championship, they were the first Pirate team ever to win the Suncoast Invitational Tournament.

WILDWOOD

Starting out slow, the Pirates stormed back to clinch a win in the semi-finals of the Suncoast Invitational Tournament. With superb efforts from both Mike Watkins and Eddie Richardson, the Pirates overcame their first quarter mistakes to outscore the Wildcats and take the lead in the second quarter. Leading 55 to 27, Crystal River played a nearly flawless second half to demolish Wildwood, 80 to 65 and advance toward the final of the tournament.

Again mistakes gave the Pirates opponents an early lead. However the lead was not to last long, as Eddie Richardson cut loose and scored basket after basket for Crystal River. Warren Brooks also helped the Pirates by working the baseline and adding 23 points. Dennis Watkins and Carl Metz, both guards, played a great defensive game and also set up Eddie Richardson with their inside passes. Crystal River simply out defensed and outscored Dunnellon to win 87-58. This victory gave the Pirates their first Suncoast Invitational Tournament Championship.

A valiant effort for conference!

Lack of experience, size, and depth contributed to a halting beginning for the Pirates. After the Christmas break, the J.V. finally displayed a winning form. Winning three straight conference games was due to, as Coach Gabbard remarked, "the boys finally working as a team." The boys had a lot of potential and they were beginning to show it." Losing a close contest to Lake Weir seemed to put them out of the conference race; however, desire to win and hustle kept the Pirates in contention until the last. Their gallant efforts shall not be forgotten.

Wrestling is both a skilled and quick sport!

A wrestler is unique

The grueling test of physical and mental endurance, the straining of muscles and ligaments, the learning of new forms and styles, all are part of being a wrestler.

A usual day for a wrestler includes running three miles, lifting weights, an hour of calisthenics, and then wrestle offs. In addition, he must work to maintain his weight class by strict diets and excessive exercise.

During a match the sport becomes individualized, while still having the sense of being a member of a team deeply impressed on each wrestler. The pressure is intense because one mistake in a move can cause a loss of confidence and possibly the match. Winning a match gives a wrestler a feeling of accomplishment for himself and for the team. So, a wrestler must have the combined requirements of determination and skill and the ability to struggle alone for his goal — a win.

11-5, a good season for varsity!

Teamwork is the key to wrestling

Speed, experience and strength give a wrestler what it takes. At a good attitude and you have a winner. Our team had that winning attitude and displayed it through all seasons.

Wrestling against bigger and better schools this year the boys were up to what no other team in Wayne County, Rutherford and Lemuel Watkins places second three times in the exercises and streets. Rob Herman won first place at the state competition. At state, Rob Herman pinned his first three opponents in one second round to advance. Specifying, I could give Rob second place at state. In a street race, we placed second overall.

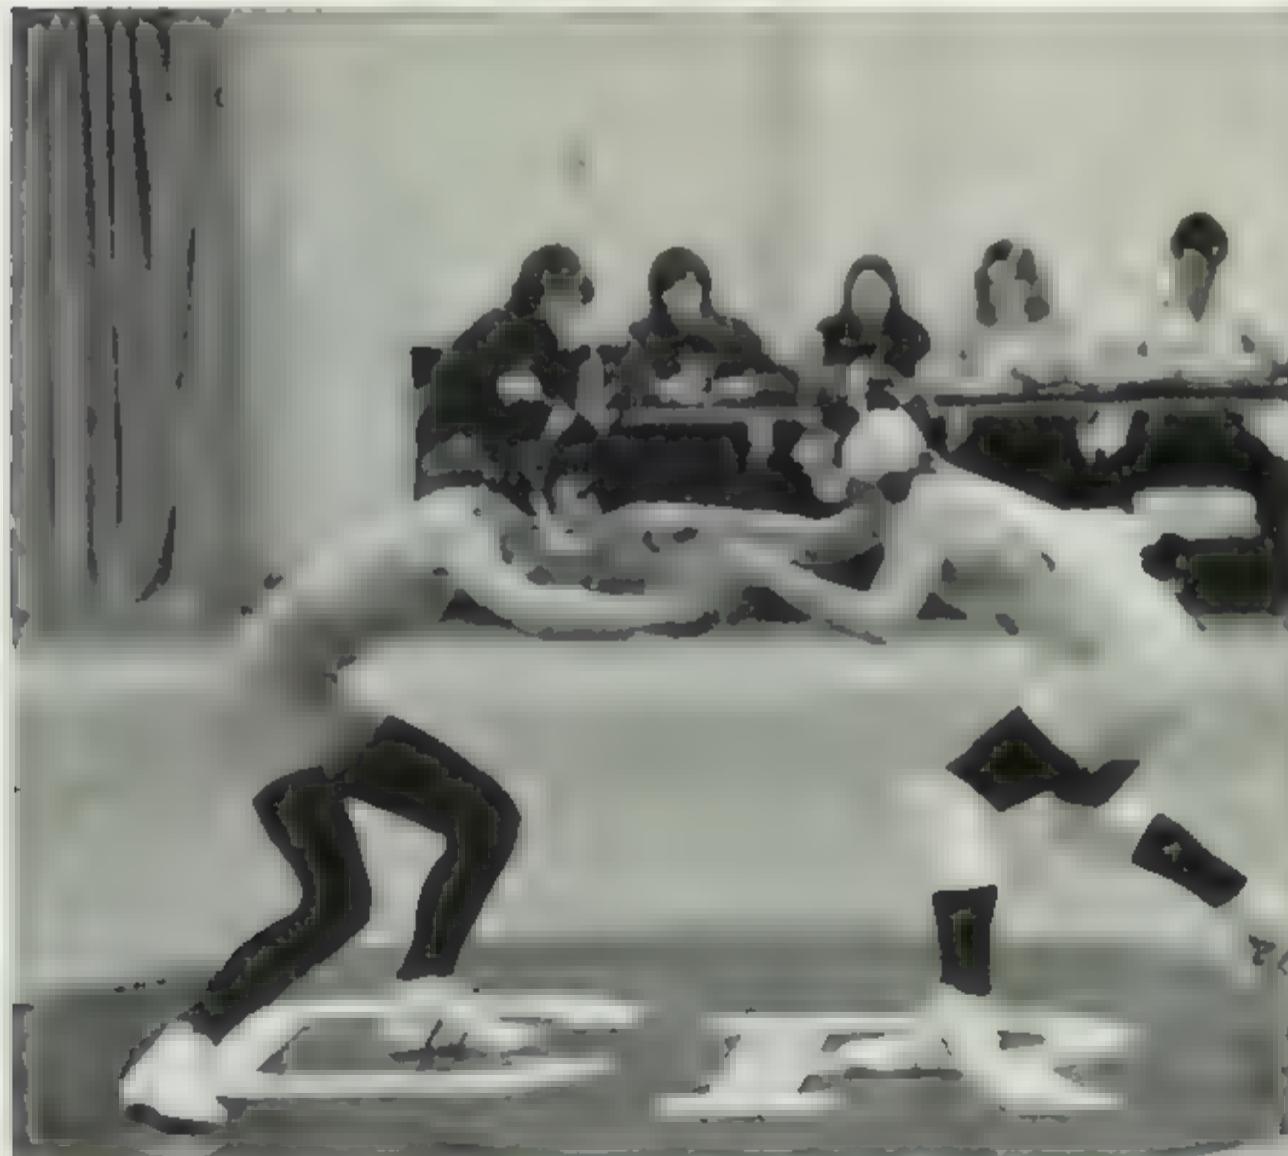

The secret for the team's success has to be Coach Carl Hudson. His quality. In his third year as head coach of the team, Coach Hudson has put together one of the finest wrestling programs in the Northwest. Carl Hudson coaches the team with his vast knowledge and experience. The spirit of wrestling. Carl Barber had also supervised the coaches to the wrestling team. He coached the JV as Carl Hudson concentrated his efforts on the varsity. Working side by side, Carl Hudson and Coach Barber helped the boys into near perfection.

The wrestler has to run three miles then exercise for an hour and then they have to wrestle it with a partner. Even though the partners were different, the grumbled. They knew that if you get to the top in wrestling, you had to be in shape.

"If I can hold on for just ten seconds."

Although Coach Hudson and Coach Barber were mainly responsible for the physical condition of the boys, each individual had to develop the right mental attitude. Each one had his own way of obtaining this attitude. Some pretended they hated their opponent, while others just thought of the other competitor as a lifeless dummy which they practiced difficult moves on.

All the different mental attitudes seemed to work as they won time and time again. However, sometimes they found an opponent that was just a little bit better prepared, in a greater frame of mind, or more experienced. When this happened defeat was inevitable. Instead of dwelling upon these bad times, (which were few) the boys worked harder so that it would not happen again. We can be proud of these wrestlers, because they showed a lot of pride and love for their sport, wrestling.

Varsity has terrific season!

Good batting! Fine average!

Late in November, as the football season was coming to a close, our varsity baseball team was already hard at work in preparation for the upcoming season. With nine returning seniors, this season promised to be the best year we had ever had in the three years that baseball has been a part of our athletic program.

Under the leadership of Coach David Hickey, perhaps one of the most dedicated and determined coaches here at CRHS, the team progressed from a group of young men, each trying to win a place on the roster, to a tight-knit, hard working team.

The work paid off with the team batting average reaching an amazing .280 by mid-season. "The one thing that hurt the team the most," said Coach Hickey, "was our defense." He went on to say that this was mostly due to a general lack of speed and quickness on the team, but hopes to improve that by next year.

Next year for the Pirates will be one of rebuilding with only five returning seniors. "With the feeder program being what it is," Coach Hickey commented, "it's hard to have a very consistent program."

We were all very proud of our baseball team this year and the excellent job Coach Hickey did with them. "I just like to work with the kids," Coach Hickey said. "It's the same with all the coaches, if we didn't, we wouldn't be here."

J.V. Baseball builds stamina!

Rough season!

With a 1-7 record, the j.v. baseball team had a disappointing season. Chief Hudson said that there was talent on the team, but it was not used. Playing against stiff competition, the team had a frustrating year.

John Truett, Richard Brookshire, and Mark Spangler were the stars of the team in Chief Hudson's opinion. Mark Spangler, a freshman, had the highest batting average.

At the end of the j.v. season, John Truett, Mike Williams, Richard Brookshire, and Mike Coover were all moved up to the varsity team for the remaining games on the varsity schedule, to practice their pitching and other skills. Next year about six of the j.v. players will be on varsity.

The track team works hard!

Pride and determination

Track is a combination of an athlete's desires and abilities; limited by the seconds on the clock and measured by the inches on the tape.

The meaning of competition differs among athletes, but balanced in between all of them is the team builder; desire, dedication, determination, and sacrifice.

Our track team combined these qualities with lightning-quick speed to break twenty-two school records. The girl's team broke all of their previous standing school records, while the boy's team shattered eight of their records to qualify for district competition.

Coaches, Douglas and Barber were pleased with the overall standing of the teams. They feel the boy's and girl's represented the school well, as they competed against some of the top teams of the state in our classification. Coach Douglas said, "To track we leave a record and to the future we leave our goals in hope that others will do what we have done."

The golf team has a good season

Good golfing!

It has been an exceptional year for the golf team. This is partly due to the unfailing effort and skill of the players and partly due to the coaching of Mr. Wilkerson and several pros in the area. Perhaps the greatest achievement of the year was winning the mid-Florida Conference Golf Championship for the fifth year in a row. Mr. Wilkerson stated that in the following years some of the team may possibly go into golf professionally, but as of yet he cannot say for sure.

Accuracy, coordination, and ability are needed to make the team, then long hours of practice help to build strength, endurance and skill.

However, physical capability isn't all that's required for a good player. The girls must learn to have unity as a team and to be mentally prepared for the game.

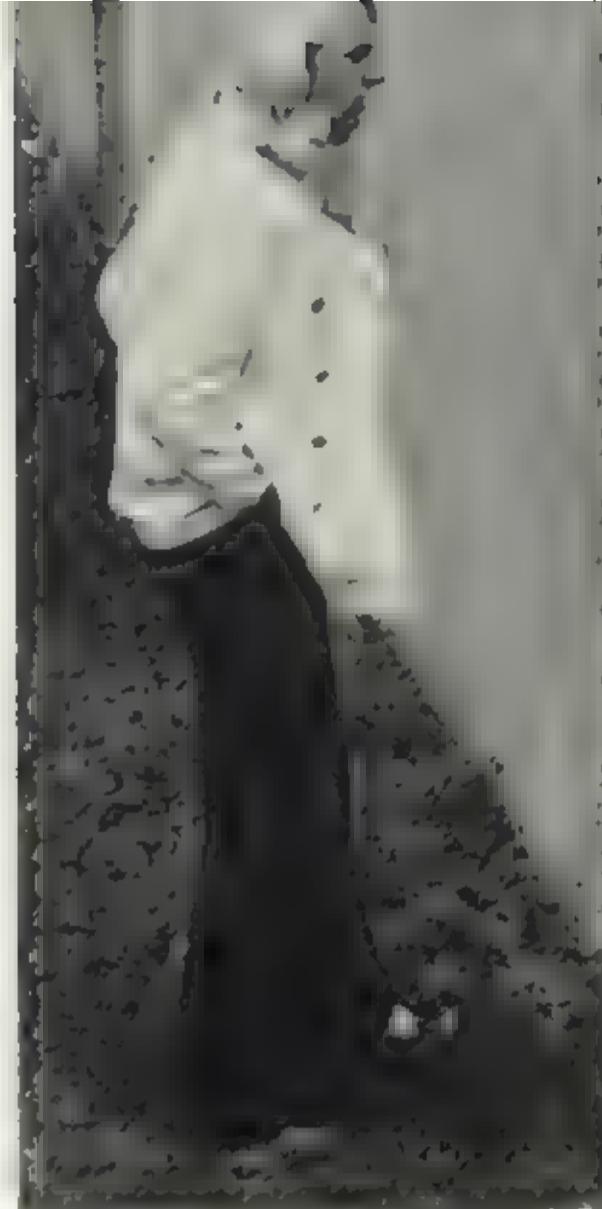

Stuff competition made the team's goal of winning especially hard. Schools like Gainesville and Gulf were some of the toughest on the schedule.

Coach Trenary helped improve the girls' volleys and strokes. Mrs. Trenary's coaching made it less difficult to win, and support from fellow team members made the girls try much harder.

The girls finished their season with an eleven to four record. They also scored high at the district matches.

Putting a new team together

Reconstruction was the key word for the boys' tennis team due to the loss of five lettermen who graduated. This meant that for many of the team members this was the first time that they had participated in tennis competition. Naturally, they had a lot to learn, but they worked together to build the skills and experience they needed. This team was composed of freshmen through seniors, and the proficiency they gained will help to build a well-balanced and effective team in the future. Throughout this season the team and its coach, Jim Carter, showed determination, good sportsmanship, and genuine ability.

What does a gymnast do?

Many people don't consider gymnastics a sport; they think of it as more of a pastime. It takes many painful hours of practice and severe mental and physical strain for the correct execution of a stunt. In learning a particular move a gymnast must first psyche himself up and then take it by steps, one area at a time. Balance, coordination, strength, and intelligence are necessary to make a good gymnast. The physical attainment required in gymnastics is equal to or surpasses the needs of football, baseball, and other sports of this nature. In gymnastics, a person never learns it all, and many new stunts can be discovered by accident. One new addition to our team is our coach, Coach Michael Barber. He has been a lot of help and a good friend to our team.

Sophomores glide into a new year

Easy does it!

The confusion that the sophomores had faced in their freshman year had passed, and they had gotten their acts together. They felt confident for the most part about their school, classes, their friends, and now they could relax into the day-to-day routine. This was a year for sitting back and watching the days go by.

This is not to say that the sophomores weren't active as people because they were. Many of them had really gotten into their school work and were interested in many of the different aspects of learning that the curriculum had to offer. They had found their way into activities too varied to mention and had really become quite at home in the school.

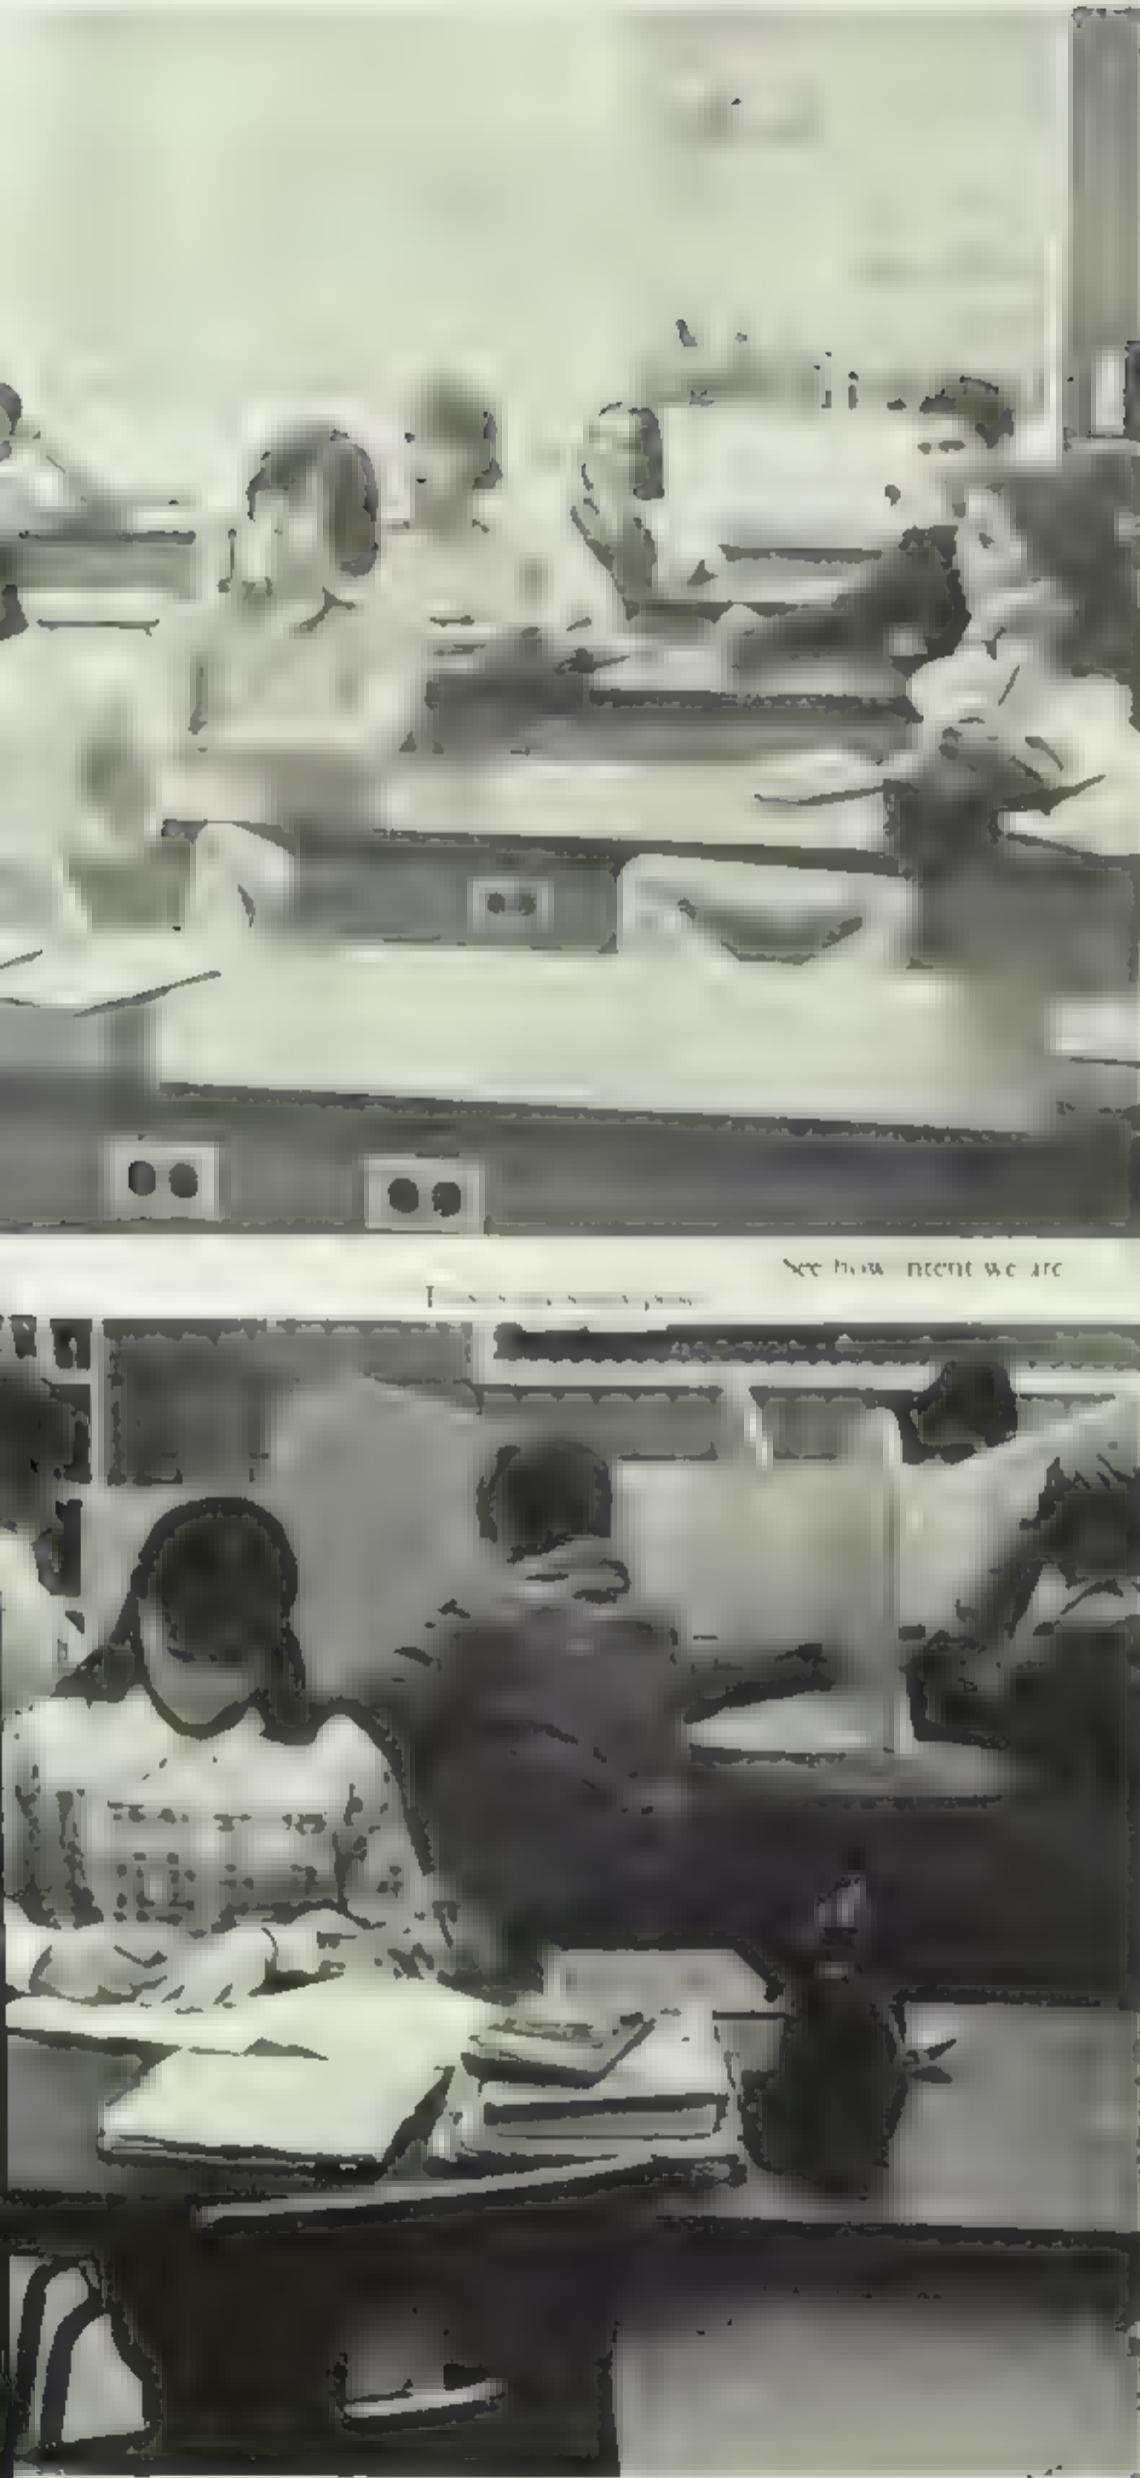

This shows it's done.

FRONT: STUDENT COUNCIL REPRESENTATIVES Donna Coker, Angela Pearson, Patti Paulus, Miriam Joyner. BACK: Kathy Lord, president; Deana Eggers, vice president; Christy Allen, secretary; Windy Williams, treasurer.

Togetherness

They worked together enthusiastically at Homecoming and produced a unified effort as a class. They planned and built a float and wrote and presented a skit for Pirate's Prowl. All in all, they made a good showing.

They did not have any fund-raising events during the year and did not sponsor any activities. Theirs seemed to be a year of taking it easy. Many of them said that next year would be the year for effort and sweat because of the prom, and they might as well enjoy the peaceful times while they could.

Another view of the float

Looking ahead

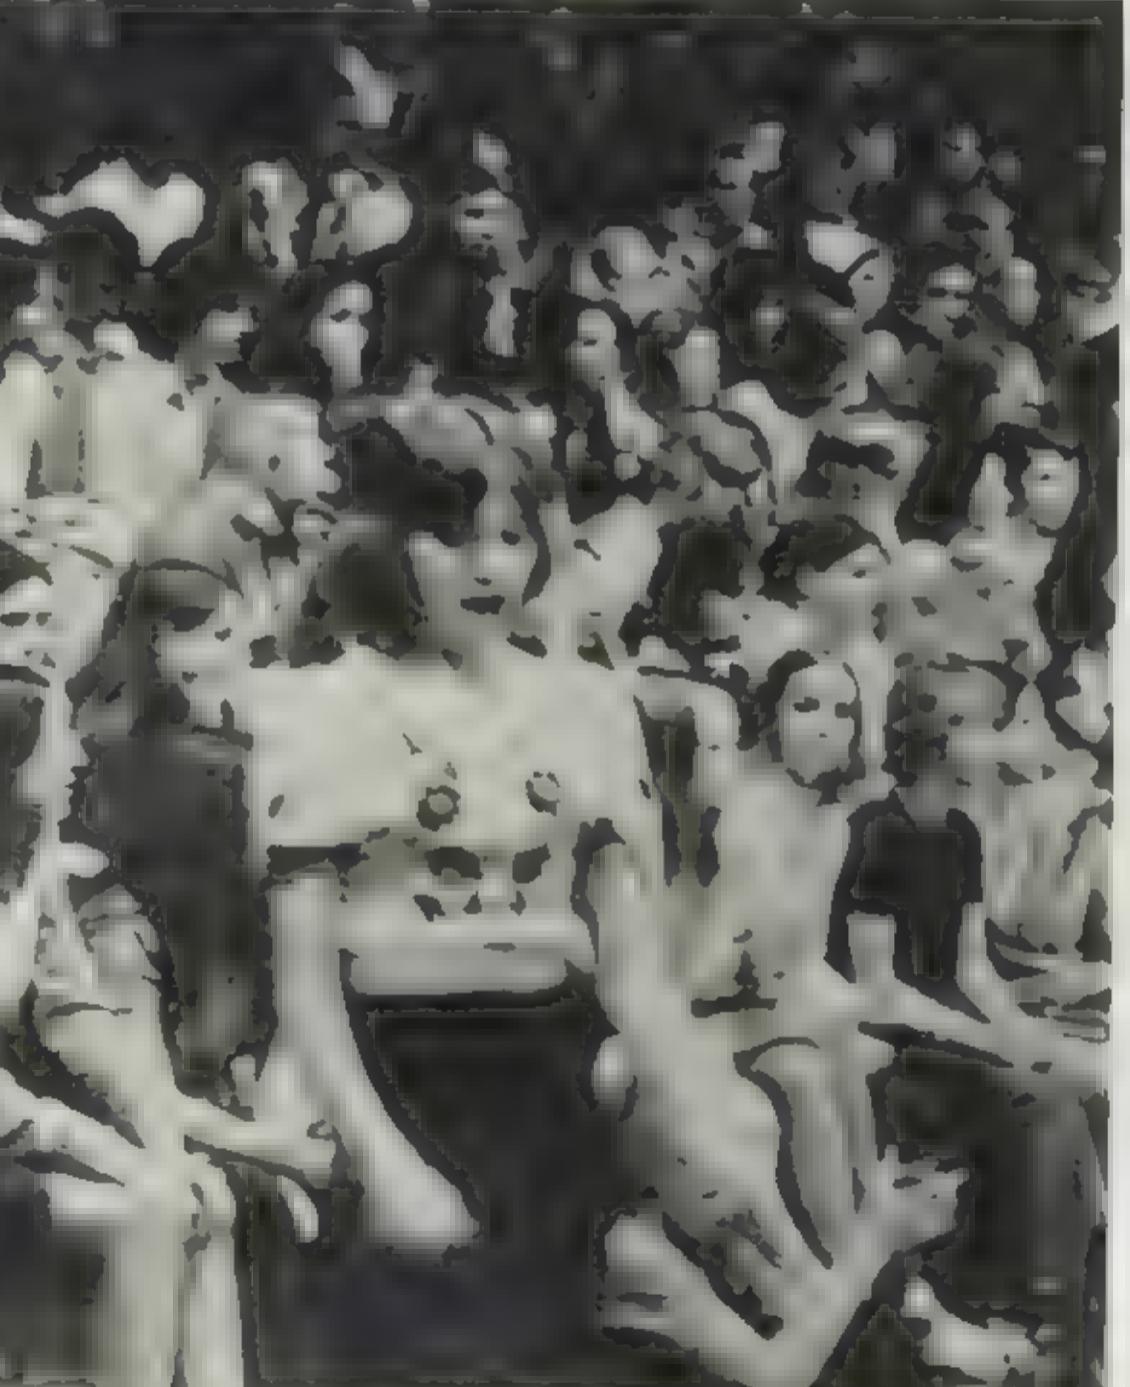

As the days passed and the year drew to an end, many of their thoughts turned to what was to come. Those who had looked forward to their sophomore year started looking forward to their junior and senior years with class rings, proms, and graduations.

In the swing!

And, as the year progressed, the freshmen began to get their feet on the ground. Sure, it took some of them nearly a week to find their classes on a regular basis and it wasn't too unusual to see someone jump up after a class had started and say, "Uh oh . . . this is second period not third! I'll see you later." But pretty soon nearly everyone had gotten his bearings, and had begun to know his way around rather well.

Sometimes some of the classes seemed to be a shock — especially when the results of the first major tests came back. A few of the freshmen seemed rather doubtful about how they were going to make out gradewise, but soon they too had gotten it all together!

"Oh no, here come the papers!"

"It must be here somewhere"

Show a little leg

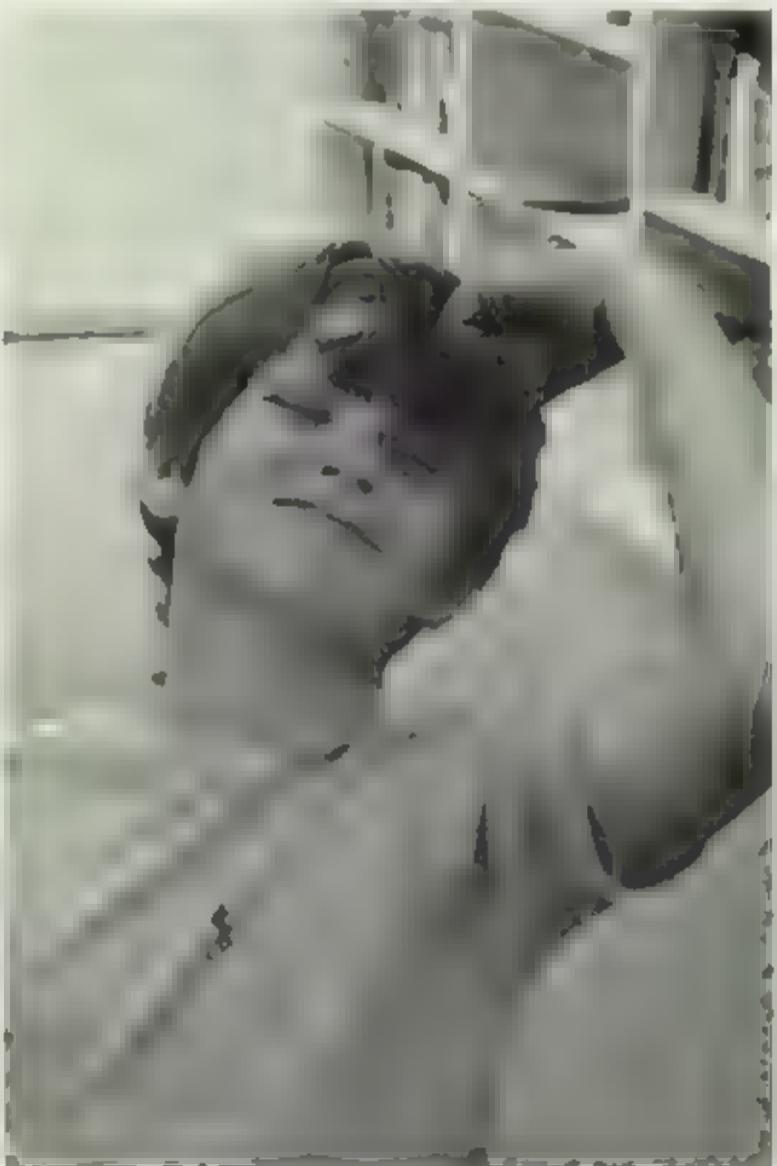

Just relaxing

Ency quickly discovered that high school offered them some wonderful opportunities to play — and not just in gym. Homecoming was a perfect example of this. They got to dream up and construct a float, which took many hours of hard thought and also a lot of kidding around and sharing. Homecoming week, with all of its antics and group-oriented frivolity, provided many chances for working on things as a class hat day, voodoo day, etc. Pirate's Prowl came along too, and skit members got to be stars for an evening.

Throughout the year the freshmen played and worked and matured and grew. By the year's end, they were able to have collected fond memories and were prepared to go on to the next stage.

WALK UNDER WATER

Homosassa Springs is Florida's most Natural Attraction where visitors walk under water to view the famous "Fish Bowl Spring" and can watch more than 34 varieties of fish swimming together in this huge freshwater spring. Cruise the tropical jungle waterway... stroll along the unspoiled nature trails... feed the squirrels and deer see waterfowl of the world, playful otters... sea lions and chimpanzees cringe as 'gators leap for fish. Dine in the beautiful Garden of the Springs. Fun, excitement and entertainment for all.

THE END OF THIS SCHOOL YEAR MEANT THAT IT WAS TIME FOR SOME OF US TO GO FORTH AND MEET OUR OWN "BRAVE NEW WORLD," FOR OTHERS, IT WAS JUST ANOTHER LONG VACATION AND THEN BACK TO SCHOOL AS USUAL.

IT CAN BE SAID THAT THIS YEAR WAS CERTAINLY NOT AN UNEVENTFUL YEAR. IT WAS CLEAR THAT THINGS WERE NOT GOING TO BE THE SAME. WE WERE SHOCKED WHEN WE FINALLY REALIZED THAT OUR ECONOMY WAS CRUMBLING AROUND US. SOME OF US HAD OUR OWN IDEAS ON HOW TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM, BUT MOST OF US JUST WONDERED WHAT WAS GOING TO HAPPEN WHEN IT WAS OUR TURN TO TAKE OUR PLACE IN THE COMPLICATED MACHINE KNOWN AS THE OUTSIDE WORLD.
